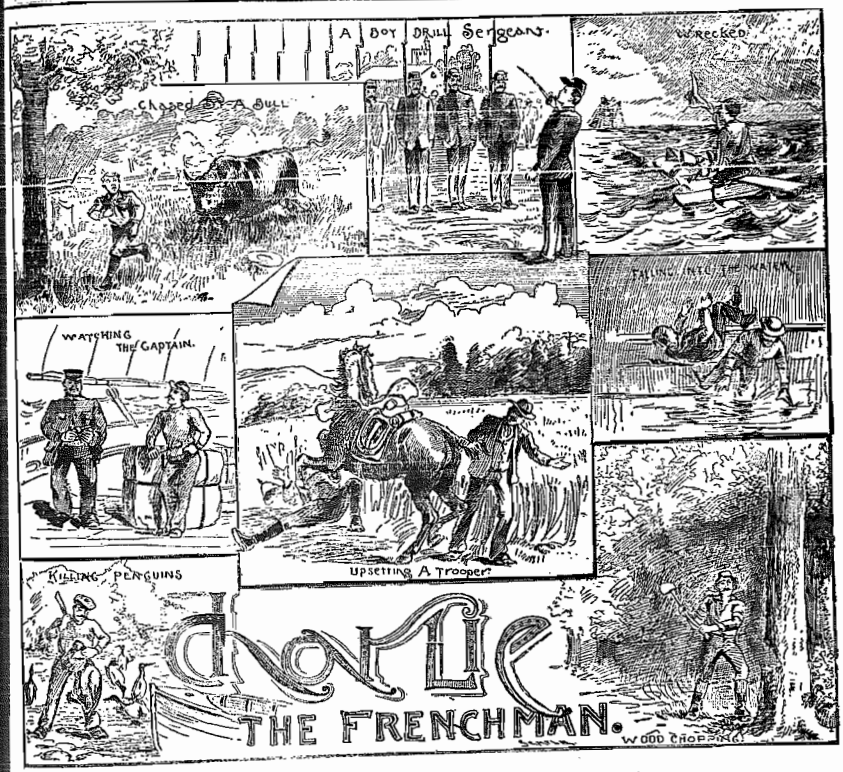
Gen. WM. BOOTH, General. D. M. REES, Commissioner.

The All Round the World War Cry

AND OFFICIAL GAZETTE OF THE SALVATION ARMY, CANADA.

Vol. VII. No. 360. TORONTO, CANADA, SEPTEMBER 19TH, 1891. PRICE 5 CENTS.



CHARLIE THE FRENCHMAN.

No. Charlie is not his real name, but, seeing that his real name is a trifle too difficult for ordinary Englishmen to articulate, the name "Charlie," or, as he would pronounce it, "Sharlie," comes in handy for us who have daily dealings with him. Ordinarily, he is the first Salvationist whom the visitor to Headquarters meets, and in your greeting—"Bon jour, monsieur, comment allez vous?" he will readily answer, "Tres bien," and even if he should not happen to be quite tres bien, physically, you may always reckon on getting a satisfactory reply when you ask him about the welfare of his soul. "Oui oui," says he, "Je suis bien sauve!"

Like the Italians and Swiss, Frenchmen as a rule are both Ardent and Impulsive.

No race on earth can demonstrate its hatred or its affection in a more practical way than the French, and nobody can jump from one extreme of emotion to another like the Frenchman or the Italian.

In Charlie, from his earliest years, were seen well developed, those strong emotional characteristics of his race, and like nearly all boys of every nation under heaven, he had a greater liking for mischief than for his far study or books. He was sent to school at three years of age, but instead of learning as he ought, he was a bad boy and used to "cheek" his teacher.

Partly on account of the poverty of his parents, and partly because they could see that educational influences were thrown away on him, he was taken from the seminary at nine years of age, and sent to mind cattle; but the great big bull was too much for him, and instead of allowing itself to be minded, in a rage it would go for its youthful keeper, who forthwith had to take refuge in a tree.

Later on, Charlie's pilfering proclivities caused his parents no small amount of trouble. One day he stole some money from the top of a cupboard, where his father had placed it in the forlorn hope that it would be out of his reach, and with this he cleared out, returning, however, to receive what he calls "a leedle hiding, nor a big von."

French lads, under a certain age, are not allowed to enlist without their parents' written consent, so, weary of home restraints, we next find Charlie entreating his father to let him go for a soldier. Consent was at length obtained, and for three months after his enlistment Charlie stayed in the barracks, learning the drill. In this art he soon became so efficient that he was Made Drill-sergeant, and thousands of people came down from the town to see him—a lad of sixteen—drilling the soldiers.

From the barracks he was sent on board a man-o'-war ship, called "La Vengeance," and in connection with the notorious Crimean war, which was then agitating the whole of Europe, he sailed up the Baltic to the "Bon Masson" fort.

One day, while there, he went out to look for some fruit that was growing in the bush, and some of the Russians came out and took him prisoner. They brought him before the governor of the fort, who thought him a nice little lad, and gave him to his son as a playmate. Three or four days after that the French and English took the fort, and he was thus enabled to return to his friends and tell them how the Russians had kept him as their

[CONTINUED ON PAGE 4.]

ABOUT THE GENERAL.

His Reception in Cape Town.

Great and Influential Gatherings—The Governor, the Commander of the Troops, and the President of the Legislature Present.

(English Cry.)

With characteristic good fortune, the General arrived at Cape Town in ample time for the first meetings announced.

The telegraphic reports of these gatherings show that they were of the most influential and encouraging description. In the fore part of the day he addressed a select meeting of citizens, on his Social Scheme. Sir J. Gordon Sprigg presided, and the audience included Sir H. B. Loch, the Governor of the Colony; Lieut.-General Cameron, Commander of the troops; the Honorable Sir J. H. de Villiers, Chief Justice and President of the Legislative Council, and a large number of members of both houses of the Cape Legislature.

The Chairman warmly welcomed the General, and in introducing him to the audience, described him as "the head of most wonderful and powerful social organization the present century had produced." In the evening the General addressed over five thousand persons in the largest building in Cape Town. Like the first assembly, the gathering of all classes and creeds was quite phenomenal in its character.

The chair was taken by the Chief Justice, who, in his opening speech, touched upon some Colonial objections to General Booth's plan of emigration, but said that "South Africa was large enough to maintain a big population, and the colonists had no objections to receiving honest men and women, although they were poor."

A resolution expressing deep sympathy, and confidence in the main principles of the scheme was carried by acclamation, amid great enthusiasm.

In the course of conversation after the meeting, the General expressed himself as highly pleased with the universal cordiality of his reception. He was the guest of Sir J. Gordon Sprigg.

A Reuter's telegram from Kimberley (Saturday) states:—"The General arrived here to-day and met with a most cordial reception. His progress from the railway station to his hotel was of quite a triumphal character, the streets being lined with immense crowds, who warmly cheered the General as he passed. A great meeting in furtherance of the objects of the Salvation Army will be held to-night under the auspices of the Diamond Fields Ministers' Association.

* * *

Later.

The General continues to have remarkable meetings in Africa. A wonderful time was spent in Kimberley, where our African Headquarters is situated, and he has held great meetings in Port Elizabeth, another important seaport. At the last General's great tour has been a big success, and we are confident this will be still more so as the time wears on.

The General and party returned to Cape Town to join the E.M.S. "Tainui," and sailed on Friday, 28th Aug., Hobart, Tasmania, where they will be met and ed by Commissioner Coombs, Col. McKie, and others, and proceed at once to Melbourne. The passage will occupy about three weeks.

A free complimentary railway pass has been granted to the General and Colonel Nicol for their journeys in Africa, in addition to which all officers, soldiers, and recruits have been allowed to travel at single fares for double journey when attending the General's meetings.

The travelling arrangements in Australia, too, are most satisfactory. The various Governments, in whose hands are the railways, are not only showing their appreciation of the Army's work by supplying complimentary passes for the General and his Secretary, but are arranging to reserve special accommodation for his use when travelling, and providing the same concession to Africa for all Salvationists attending his meetings.

BRAVERY IN "DARKEST ENGLAND."

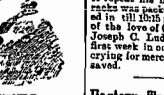
BY J. ROWLAND, BRANDON.

Speak we of the generous brave and true,
Nor let them e'er be classed with the few
That dare the battles' bloody fields, and stand
The tropic heat of some polluted land.
Brave men there are who never used the sword,
Who never fired the bayonet at the word
"Fix bayonets!" nor have faced a mighty foe,
Whose aspirations are to dare and do.

Give we all honor to the brave Hussars
Who did a noble part in Egypt's wars,
Who formed a bold and never flinching square
While rude barbarians down the hill did flow
In one every wave of sable human kind.
Some leading on the foremost ranks behind
Were others boldly pressing on to find
A British force as sturdy as the oak.
(That's prized for strength by all the British folk!)
That flinches not when Northern winds assail
And bid defiance to the raging gale.

O, muses! light as air come gently down,
And teach us ne'er on eighteous man to frown,
But let us justice have, and mercy know,
So unto others we may mercy show;
Join in with General Booth with helping hand
To help the helpless in our Mother land,
Th' oppressors of the poor we would disdain,
Who cause the widows' hearts to bleed in vain
And cause the orphans—O the cruel wrong,
To cry for bread, while they move proudly on,
Nor deign to look to such that cry for bread.
And caring less how they are to be fed.
All souls that look upon the needy poor,
Their spirits may to fond ambition soar—
But let us never class them with the brave,
For others ther have never tried to save.

We spoke of military forces strong,
Of how our enemies drove the stubborn foe along,
And won a name, and gained a nation's praise
That will be chanted in the poet's lays,
And told to children while they stop their glee
And listen to their sires attentively;
How their brave fathers in the days of yore
Did face the foe in the Egyptian war—
But there are men as noble and as brave
That never faced a mighty human wave,
And never let British blood were engaged,
But warfare far superior they have waged:
They've fought right nobly for a crust of bread
While perspiration down their brows has shed
Some toiling hard in cold and wint'ry weather
For bread to keep their body and soul together.
Fond mothers—who to appease their children's cry—
(While with the heavy burden of a sigh)
Have sallied forth into the world untried,
Or to the distaff willing hands have plied,
Or as sisters to worldly substance into years,
Whereby they could an honest penny earn
To keep the children from a starving state,
Some others have too, all day have slaved, and late
Into the dismal night have sat and sewn
Untiled the hours of night were nearly flown;
"Well, paradoxical" some may even say
"It was not bravery led them to thefray!"
What was it then? We ask, I pray you tell;
"What was it!" they reply—"thou sayest well!"
What was it? why! 'twaslove, and nothing more,
For love is strong, then, help the striving poor."
As pity is akin to love, so love
Is bravery. What tends to move
The sympathising heart, the eye to tears,
Makes love to follow suit; and man of years
While yielding to this passion of the soul,
Have learned to face—the hungry lions' scowl
And stand like flint while wolves around did roar,
As bold as horses of the Trojan war.
While prompted on by love, men braver grow,
And bid defiance to their every foe.
Brave is he that rules well his heart,
And plays the honest man in every part.
E'en heathen dares to take a city strong—
Thou'st praised in ancient Homer's warlike song—
Is not as brave as he who dares to fight
His soul's dark foe, and dares to do the right.



BEREAVEMENTS.

Having Special Reference to Major and Mrs. Baugh, Adjt. and Mrs. Howell, Adjt. and Mrs. Walder, and others who have so Recently been Bereaved.

God has been working mysteriously around us during the last few weeks. Loved ones have been taken away, but yet we praise Him. How could we do otherwise when we know that He is our Father, God, and "doeth all things well." The worldling and stranger to the Kingdom knows only how to smile when gladness and brightness play around his path. The child of Heaven has discovered that and tears no bitterness," whatever may be the earthly outlook.

"ILL HAVE NO WEIGHT,

Most earnestly do we tender to Major and Mrs. Baugh, and to Adjutant and Mrs. Howell, sympathies in the name of the God who has so often comforted us, that we might better know how to comfort others. From both these households a little one has been taken, ever whose deaths the consecrated parents have said in sincere "Thy will be done."

We have a letter from the Major, in which he speaks of the sudderness of their loss finishing his account by a soldier's acquiescence in the wisdom of God's dealings. He says, "The child has gone to a better Land. We mourn, but do not murmur. A Father's hand holds the rod. Hallelujah!"

How good it is thus to trust where we cannot trace! How hard it is, too, when a man or woman is not quite right in his soul, and has no living faith in his Christ because he has been recovered from Him by a barrier of sin and doubt!

It is easy enough to talk, I know, but there is grace given for more than this—grace to suffer and be silent beneath the chastening hand of God, grace to give Him the glory even out of the land of affliction. He has given this grace unto our comrades, teaching them to rejoice in tribulation, and praise God for all of their consecration to do it. We have need to pray that, however, may be given onto them, knowing that our prayers continue also the messenger of death, when in turn we shall need the prayers of our comrades.

SPECIAL CHEER AND BLESSING,

In a future issue we are giving a short sketch of Lieut. Curlew's life and death, but we ask meanwhile the prayers of our readers on behalf of his family and friends too.

B. B. C.

NOTES FROM BROCKVILLE.

A Salvation Sample Room—Cucumbers for "Water recipe"—Mayor Booth Lends a Helping Hand—A Clerical Looking Gentleman—Three Souls.

The old barracks we have just vacated was formerly a police court, barroom, saloon, and latterly a Salvation Army Sample Room, and we have some good samples here on exhibition.

* * *

Our present barracks, just occupied by us, was formerly a bowling alley, then a printing office where the "Recorder" was printed, then a cheese-box factory, and now a Salvation cathedral, where the devil has been bowled out of three hearts already. Praise God.

* * *

The Lieutenant offered a WAR CRY to a farmer the other day, but the farmer said he had no money, but would exchange cucumbers for a CRY. The exchange was made, and we have had cucumbers on hand ever since.

* * *

An invitation came from Headquarters for the officers to attend the Anniversary meetings at Toronto in September, so I have been trying to raise our funds. Those who have subscribed so far towards the amount required are Mr. Charles Booth, who kindly gave $2; Mr. Baum, the proprietor of the Revere House, $2, and while holding an open-air the other night outside the Grand Central Hotel, the proprietor and his wife gave sixty cents in the collection.

* * *

The people stared very hard at the Army on Thursday night in the open-air when they saw a clerical-looking gentleman with a shining silk hat, black frock coat, white tie, etc., leading the meeting, but it was no other than Capt. Ludgate, who had been requested by the friends of the meeting to repeat his lively sermon. The meeting was packed out, and the Captain led in 21 souls, amongst them the father of the love of God Ludgate, and his wife, Joseph C. Ludgate. We thought the first week in our new barracks would be crying for mercy. Hallelujah! Twenty-one saved.

BILLY.

Eastern Travels and Triumphs.

NEWFOUNDLAND VISITED.

BY BRIG. JACKSON.

After nearly three days and three nights on the mighty deep, Mrs. Jackson and especially glad to know we were safely St. Johns, N. F. Major Scott and Captain Shea, the Perpetual Motion man, were on the wharf to give us a proper Salvation Army land welcome. At the present time there are a number of our Newfoundland soldiers away at Labrador, where Capt. Shea is fishing and his Lieut. are doing the best they can to get souls saved, and look after the soldiers from the various corps. Nevertheless, the platform at the No. 1 Barracks was well-saved! Adjt. Tucker [illegible] of his go-ahead-ism. He keeps things [illegible] Major and Mrs. Scott have gave the Brigadier and his wife a hearty welcome to the Island. Captain Shea has gone the next day settling with the Crown Home officers for Belle Isle, and received, whilst we took train to BRIGUS.

This is a beautiful little place, just the kind in which one feels he would like to live and die. The people are very kind and friendly. They attend the Church of England in large numbers, and pay the best of wages. We rejoiced over four souls saved out for Salvation. They were unsaved preachers right straight off. Some of the thought they were not going to get saved, but they were. The Lieut. of the Brigus will blossom abundantly, has a splendid field for work. Our old friend Capt. Pike, formerly of the Salvation Army Bay Roberts, to drive us over to his ancestral worthy corps. I need not say this to us, as pleased to see us as we were to see him.

BAY ROBERTS

was reached at noon. Everything was well until five o'clock, when the train arrived. What exc cement a letter sometimes causes! This is Major and Mrs. Pike's old stamping ground, and all the farewell orders came. Who would have thought it? The next night they had a meeting at Bay Roberts, as there will be time to again visit the corps. Two days' meetings were of the usual interesting style, and one soul came out for Salvation. Glory to God! A walk of nine miles brought us to just in time for dinner at Bro. Kennedy's and one advantage was that were just in to receive the good things provided. Major Pike's home was open even in this hard fight, for God is her refuge and shelter in every time of trial.

HARBOR GRACE,

Lieut. Morgan.

East Ore, a small place west of Grillin, was the birthplace of Lieut. Morgan. Her parents were members of the Church of England, and Ida was taught to be a faithful attendant at church and Sabbath School.

At the age of eleven years, her parents moved to Grillin, and there she first came in contact with the S.A. Strange reports about them made our comrade rather afraid to go to their meetings, but having a teacher who got saved when the Army first started those, she watched his life, and was led to think these reports could not be true.

One evening, while in company with some companions coming home from class, they thought they would drop into the Army. So and remained standing at the back of the hall. Some came out to take a seat, they turned and walked out instead.

THEY BAUTIOUSLY ENTERED

Some months after this, while on her way to Sabbath School, something seemed to impel her to go to the S.A., and the words that were spoken that afternoon sank deeply into her heart, and she went forward to the penitent-form. She soon realized that God had spoken peace to her soul, and ever since she has been a follower of the Lord Jesus Christ.

After lighting as a soldier for two years and a half, she entered

THE TORONTO TRAINING HOME.

It was while in the T.H. that she settled the matter in her soul to be willing to work among the French if the Lord wanted her.

At short time after this, Staff-Capt. Mrs. Simco visited Toronto on the hunt for candidates for the French work. Six of the Training Home girls were chosen, and our comrade was one of the number. Since then she has been doing what she could for the salvation of the French Canadians, God has been leading and blessing her wonderfully, and after four years' service, she is more than ever satisfied with the Christ who has chosen her.

Lieut. England

was born in Chatham, N.B. Her parents were strict Presbyterians, and they tried to make their daughter understand it was her duty to attend church and Sabbath School as much as possible.

When only in her thirteenth year, she went to her first ball, and ever after, until her conversion, she had a passion for dancing, and would do almost anything for one to a party or ball. Often when forbidden by her father to go to these places, she would

STEAL AWAY UNKNOWN TO HIM,

and her poor mother, to try and shield her, would leave the door open, or else give her a key, so that she could get in into the house without waking the rest when she would come home from these parties. Other worldly amusements were indulged in, but they left an aching void in her heart.

One Saturday evening she saw a crowd of people gathered around a large hall which had just been painted on a house. Upon examining this hill, our comrade found it announced that the Salvation Army would open fire next day at 9:30 o'clock, and she determined to go and see what the S.A. was like.

SHE WAS RATHER SURPRISED

to find the S.A. consisted of one young man and three lassies, but she liked the meeting. She became a regular attendant, and a week from the opening found her at the penitent-form, whom God pardoned her past sins.

Not being willing, however, to do the whole will of God, she backslid, and for three months fought against the promptings of the Spirit, until one night in a meeting, God took hold of her in such a way that she had to go to the penitent-form. She then told God that she was willing to do anything for Him if He would only see her free. Of course, God did see her free from sin, and she at once became a soldier.

About a year after this

HER HEART WAS TOUCHED

by meeting Staff-Capt. Mrs. Simco's appeal for officers for the French work, and saying "Oh, Lord, I know I am not worthy, but if you want me to go and help these girls in this French work," she wrote out her application and sent it to Commissioner Coombs.

Application forms were soon sent on to her in Hull, and shortly after Ida had got onward to the Training Home, which she did on October 5th, 1887. Since this time she has proved God's grace all sufficient for her, and has watched his life, and was led to think these reports could not be true.

One evening, while in company with some companions coming home from class, they thought they would drop into the Army. So and remained standing at the back of the hall. Some came out to take a seat, they turned and walked out instead.

THEY BAUTIOUSLY ENTERED

Some months after this, while on her way to Sabbath School, something seemed to impel her to go to the S.A., and the words that were spoken that afternoon sank deeply into her heart, and she went forward to the penitent-form. She soon realized that God had spoken peace to her soul, and ever since she has been a follower of the Lord Jesus Christ.

After lighting as a soldier for two years and a half, she entered

THE TORONTO TRAINING HOME.

It was while in the T.H. that she settled

CAPT. KERR.

THREE VALIANT LASSIES

Fighting for the Souls of French-Canadians.

Captain Kerr.

Her life has been as uneventful one. A country place in New Brunswick was her birth-place, but when only ten years of age her parents left their Eastern home and came to live in Ottawa, Ont.

From earliest childhood, Ethel was taught to attend church and Sunday School, and she was very rarely absent from her place in the class. She tried in every way to do what was right, and was looked upon as a Christian for many years before she really was converted.

The first time she heard the Salvation Army was during

THE OFFICER'S VISIT TO TORONTO.

The meeting she was at was the farewell of the first eight officers for India, and the colors were presented to Captain (now Staff-Capt.) Mrs. Simco and the other French comrades who opened the French War in the Dominion. Being the first meeting in Ottawa, it made a deep impression upon her, and although in darkness herself, her heart went out to those who were in the dense darkness of superstition.

About a month after this, while in her own room, God spoke peace to her soul, being brought up a Baptist, naturally her first desire after conversion was to join the church, and accordingly, she was immersed and enrolled as a member.

It was about five months after her first visit to the S.A. when she again went to their barracks. This time it was it Ottawa, and for about three months she was a regular attendant, when she became enrolled as a soldier. She fought in the corps here for about five months, and receiving a call for the French work, she where, after eight months' training, she set orders for Quebec as Lieut. out with Capt. Butts. Here she fought for a long period, and then received orders for St. Jean, P.Q. From here she was compelled to go on a rest owing to weakness. After about ten months' resting, she was appointed and left in charge of Montreal IV. This is really a hard, tough fight, but from past acquaintance with the Lord, she is confident of victory even in this hard fight, for God is her refuge and shelter in every time of trial.

REVIVED THE FRENCH TRAINING HOME,

Lieut. Morgan.

East Ore, a small place west of Grillin, was the birthplace of Lieut. Morgan. Her parents were members of the Church of England, and Ida was taught to be a faithful attendant at church and Sabbath School.

At the age of eleven years, her parents moved to Grillin, and there she first came in contact with the S.A. Strange reports about them made our comrade rather afraid to go to their meetings, but having a teacher who got saved when the Army first started those, she watched his life, and was led to think these reports could not be true.

One evening, while in company with some companions coming home from class, they thought they would drop into the Army. So and remained standing at the back of the hall. Some came out to take a seat, they turned and walked out instead.

THEY BAUTIOUSLY ENTERED

Some months after this, while on her way to Sabbath School, something seemed to impel her to go to the S.A., and the words that were spoken that afternoon sank deeply into her heart, and she went forward to the penitent-form. She soon realized that God had spoken peace to her soul, and ever since she has been a follower of the Lord Jesus Christ.

After lighting as a soldier for two years and a half, she entered

THE TORONTO TRAINING HOME.

It was while in the T.H. that she settled the matter in her soul to be willing to work among the French if the Lord wanted her.

At short time after this, Staff-Capt. Mrs. Simco visited Toronto on the hunt for candidates for the French work. Six of the Training Home girls were chosen, and our comrade was one of the number. Since then she has been doing what she could for the salvation of the French Canadians, God has been leading and blessing her wonderfully, and after four years' service, she is more than ever satisfied with the Christ who has chosen her.

Lieut. England

was born in Chatham, N.B. Her parents were strict Presbyterians, and they tried to make their daughter understand it was her duty to attend church and Sabbath School as much as possible.

When only in her thirteenth year, she went to her first ball, and ever after, until her conversion, she had a passion for dancing, and would do almost anything for one to a party or ball. Often when forbidden by her father to go to these places, she would

STEAL AWAY UNKNOWN TO HIM,

and her poor mother, to try and shield her, would leave the door open, or else give her a key, so that she could get in into the house without waking the rest when she would come home from these parties. Other worldly amusements were indulged in, but they left an aching void in her heart.

One Saturday evening she saw a crowd of people gathered around a large hall which had just been painted on a house. Upon examining this hill, our comrade found it announced that the Salvation Army would open fire next day at 9:30 o'clock, and she determined to go and see what the S.A. was like.

SHE WAS RATHER SURPRISED

to find the S.A. consisted of one young man and three lassies, but she liked the meeting. She became a regular attendant, and a week from the opening found her at the penitent-form, whom God pardoned her past sins.

Not being willing, however, to do the whole will of God, she backslid, and for three months fought against the promptings of the Spirit, until one night in a meeting, God took hold of her in such a way that she had to go to the penitent-form. She then told God that she was willing to do anything for Him if He would only see her free. Of course, God did see her free from sin, and she at once became a soldier.

About a year after this

HER HEART WAS TOUCHED

by meeting Staff-Capt. Mrs. Simco's appeal for officers for the French work, and saying "Oh, Lord, I know I am not worthy, but if you want me to go and help these girls in this French work," she wrote out her application and sent it to Commissioner Coombs.

Application forms were soon sent on to her in Hull, and shortly after Ida had got onward to the Training Home, which she did on October 5th, 1887. Since this time she has proved God's grace all sufficient for her, and has watched his life, and was led to think these reports could not be true.

One evening, while in company with some companions coming home from class, they thought they would drop into the Army. So and remained standing at the back of the hall. Some came out to take a seat, they turned and walked out instead.

THEY BAUTIOUSLY ENTERED

Some months after this, while on her way to Sabbath School, something seemed to impel her to go to the S.A., and the words that were spoken that afternoon sank deeply into her heart, and she went forward to the penitent-form. She soon realized that God had spoken peace to her soul, and ever since she has been a follower of the Lord Jesus Christ.

After lighting as a soldier for two years and a half, she entered

THE TORONTO TRAINING HOME.

It was while in the T.H. that she settled

WANTED! WANTED!!

Out-and-out, fully-saved, devoted, ready-for-anything, ready-to-go-any-where, live-Officer-to-die

Young Men, who are anxious to spend their lives for God and the Salvation of souls, who don't care about having any earthly roof for their rest. Must be thorough "Blood and Fire" Salvationists, ready to work, put up with hardship, or inconvenience, or travel at the word of command for the Glory of God and the Salvation of souls.

1,000 Miles

TWICE RESCUED.

Two Wanderful Sketches in a Garrison Officer's Life.

BY PICKER.

I was a reckless, careless; well, though it is no boast, I may yet "touch" would be the best word to express the kind of a character I was.

Some time ago I heard of an old New Yorker, who said, on hearing that New York urchins had climbed the fences of the Brooklyn Bridge, when only the cables and a narrow footpath had been stretched across, and crossed from New York to Brooklyn at the risk of their lives no many hundred feet above the surface of the East river, "What wouldn't a New Yorker do?" and I found from personal experience, I have proved it.

Being born and bred in that great metropolis, I had all the vices and [illegible] accustomed to all tricks, games, evils, and all else. Drinking was my delight, for it was the thing when I associated with, to do. As a rule, in the large American cities, the toughs travel in gangs, and we had our gang and names, such as the Whyos, the East Rivers, the Stars, etc.

On one occasion we had arranged a trip to Rockaway Beach, a watering place on Long Island, to enjoy ourselves in the usual way. A heavy surf rolls in at the beach where there are bathing houses and suits for hire so we decided to bathe. I considered myself a good swimmer, so after being warned both by sign and verbally, to go out only a certain distance from shore, and not beyond the buoys which were an under-tow. Two of us, in a spirit of "mind your own business," were not afraid of anything, so swam out to the buoys, and then turned back again, this time beyond the buoy. I was calm and enjoying myself, and then tried to return when and I tried my utmost to swim towards shore. I struggled and struggled, but for every stroke I made toward land, I was carried two toward the sea. I was too bold and too much of a man to cry for help, so I turned and looked toward my chum and asked him to help me, and to my surprise, I found him, though an expert swimmer, in the same predicament. I felt all was lost. I must cry for help, so I shouted with all my might. My chums on land and near the shore thought I was footing and took no notice of me, but my cry grew so rapid and earnest that the lifeguard pushed his "Catalina," a boat 30 feet long, carrying 20 men, and rowed by 10 men, on the seat and soon was riding the heavy surf toward us. As we were continually being carried out to sea. By the time he reached me, and without a doubt, would have sunk very soon. We were towed ashore, and I already saw realizing that I had been rescued from a watery grave.

Suddenly I Felt a Sort of Suction,

I Was Completely Exhausted,

* * *

As above stated, my life was one of recklessness. My father's words, "You will die a bad death on the gallows," often rang in my ears. Still I went on. To fight was my delight. The company I keep was of the worst kind. Drink was not my besetment. I'd gamble or fight any hour of the day or night, and never was backward. The crowd I associated with were noted "crooks" who would "crack a crib," "touch a man," "pinch a white coat" (a silver watch), or a "red one," (a gold watch), at any time.

On one occasion I was out with one of the gang, and though I kept their company and knew lots of their jobs, yet I never was a thief. The company I keep at these times of us, one "Sherry," one of "Dutch money," and myself. We wended our way to the sporting determinates neighborhood. It being Saturday night and after hours, we were ushered into the back room. We called for drinks, and while the bartender, a noted prize-fighter, went after the drinks, "Sherry" noticed in the room with us a man sitting on a chair with his head leaning on his arms, in a drunken stupor. He wore a heavy watch and chain, and in about two minutes, as slick as could be, "Sherry" had the watch and chain. When about to leave the man, the bartender entered, and with a volume of oaths said, "I know you were a crook, but I did not think you would go through a friend of mine," and after some hot words and an offer to we left the place. When once on the outside, I realized it was a lucky escape. Had the bartender called in the police and had us arrested, nothing could have acquitted me from being an accessory to the crime. Conviction and a term in the Penitentiary would have been the result.

"Fight it Out,"

On another occasion a business man, a man of money, thought I had cut so low that I would do almost anything, and sent for me, and after promising him I would tell no one, he offered me a large sum of money to commit incendiarism. I knew it was a crime, next to murder, and to which capital punishment could be attached, so I refused to entertain the thought, and though hard up for "funds" still I refused.

My religion was, "Make the best of life while life lasts." I neither cared for God, Heaven nor hell. I used to say, "When we die we'll go six feet of earth, and some of us will be lucky if we get that."

In my ramblings to and fro, I passed thousands of houses of worship of different denominations, and I never ventured inside, because there was nothing there to charm me.

Shortly after, I was in a Canadian city, where I saw the Army, both in the open-air and in their barracks.

Their Peculiarities Attracted Me.

I heard of Jesus' love. I was brought face to face with my sins, with God, with judgment. I felt I was in the Lion and soon felt, cried at the Army penitent-form for mercy, and the God whom I hated saved me from my sins. I was twenty-three years of age, and I have fought as a soldier, bandsman, and officer, and now God has sent fit to place me in a position of a kind to do something to assist in training lads for the Field, to war against sin and the devil and work for the salvation of souls, same kind of work for which I once belonged to.

My prayer is that I may ever be true to God and the Bridge that carried me across.

1. JOHN II. 15-16.

"Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the World, the love of the Father is not in Him. For all that is in the world,

The Lust of the Flesh,

(Gluttony, whoredom, drunkenness, opium, tobacco, snuff, novels, gambling, dancing, progressive euchre, and all so-called harmless (?) amusements.)

And the Lust of the Eyes,

(Theatre, horse-race, circus, menagerie, and shows of all kind.)

And the Pride of Life,

(Fashion, gay clothing, personal ornaments, house decoration, fashionable and expensive furniture, public amusements, great society, and popular religion) is not of the Father, but is of the world.

prisoner. After this he shipped aboard the "Navarin," which was bound for the Crimea, and on arrival, the men had to go on shore to fight.

Charlie Wanted to Go with them, but the commanding officer refused on account of his youth. However, he received permission to join his company two days after. He stayed there for twenty-one months, fought in a good many battles, and was present at the taking of Sebastopol, where the defeated Russians, while retreating, burnt all their vessels and set fire to their towns. Charlie's company was one of the three that remained behind to get the guns, and put things in order. Nothing delighted him more than to be in the very thickest of the fight, with bullets whizzing all round him. Returning to France, he went to Toulon, and got aboard a transport steamer, which had to convey back to their native land the French soldiers who had been fighting in Algiers, Africa. Most of these, owing to the severity of the climate and the hardships of war, had caught the yellow fever. While the vessel was on its way back several of them were found dead in their hammocks every day, and their bodies had to be thrown overboard as quickly as possible. These ghastly sights steadied him down somewhat, and he was reckoned a good boy while he was on that ship, but directly he reached Paris he went wrong again, and was put in jail for running away. On being brought before the commandant, in reply to the question as to why he was so bad, he said that he Wanted to go to Africa.

"You will not go there—you will die in cell first," was all the encouragement he got, so, being too bad to stay ashore, he was sent, by way of punishment, on another war frigate, which had five or six hundred collier aboard. Determined not to stay, he ran away from that vessel one night, and served a month in jail for the offence; but three days after he left, she went to sea, was wrecked, and all hands were lost. Thus God mercifully spared his life.

For fifteen months he stayed in the barracks at Brest, during which time he was nearly always in the lockup for drinking and fighting. In 1859 he was discharged from the service, and after spending two or three weeks at home with his friends, he shipped aboard a sailing vessel which was going to Rio de Janeiro. He caught the yellow fever on that trip, and when the vessel reached its destination, was kept in the hospital until his recovery. His next vessel was engaged in carrying ammunition from New York to the French troops, for use in the Franco-Prussian war, being fought at that time.

When the war was over he signed articles for five years' service on board the "Islais," and went with it to Patagonia, to get penguins for the manufacture of oil.

An Accident Occurred on his first passage in this vessel, by which the first mate fell overboard. Charlie, with another man, jumped in a boat to save him, but the sea was so rough that they not only failed to save the man, but lost their own boat and nearly their lives. By grasping the "cudding" on the side of the ship, Charlie managed to pull himself back again, and on turning round to see if his mate was all right, he found that he had saved himself by hanging to the cudding, Charlie was duly installed as first mate in place of the man who was lost, and when the ship reached Patagonia the captain stayed on the island, and he took charge of the ship for the return journey to Monte Video, with the understanding that he was to come back with the vessel to Patagonia, and carry provisions to the men staying behind, but when they reached Monte Video, he and the eleven men who comprised the crew left the ship. Seeing the American flag flying, they knew where they were free.

Charlie's next vessel was an English one, and nobody on board could speak French besides himself and the captain. However, between these two there sprang up such a friendship, which was by no means diminished by the kind manner in which the Captain assisted Charlie in his endeavors to learn English. The vessel was bound for San Francisco.

On their way back they were wrecked two degrees west of Cape Horn. While struggling in the water Charlie fortunately happened to lay hold of a rude raft made on this remained all night. Next morning he was picked up by a ship called the "Sonderland," and carried to Valparaiso. Here the authorities treated him with the utmost kindness. The English Consul put him into a hotel, and procured him a suit of clothes, and another (an English captain) provided him with a pair of boots, and a third, and an oil skin.

"The Hawkeye" was the name of the vessel on which he returned to France. Its captain was a violent-tempered man, and Charlie was the only one on board with whom he did not fight. He, for his part, had made up his mind that it would not be worth his while for the skipper to come at him. Says he, "When he came to me in the cabin I got hold of a belaying-pin and threatened to kill him. Then he walked up and down on the top of the poop, with his revolver ready to shoot me. I was working on deck, for two days, and he but kept the belaying-pin ready for action."

The captain was, moreover, a Terrible Wife-beater.

His wife gave Charlie a blanket one day because it was so cold, and on seeing this in his hammock, the irate man went and worried the poor fellow, and Charlie had up his mind to "pull" him when the ship reached its destination, but, possibly in anticipation of his intended fate, when that time came he gave him $50 more than his proper money, because, as he said, he was such a good sailor; but Charlie was glad to leave the ship. Three days after leaving port on his next voyage that captain was murdered by his own crew.

Coming to London, Charlie shipped aboard the "Wimmera," for Melbourne, with the idea of returning to London but while at sea he altered his mind, and asked the captain to put him ashore in Australia. The captain, on the other hand, did not want him to leave the ship, but asked him to stay aboard and go on with it from Melbourne to Sydney. This he consented to do, but when he had put the last bale of goods aboard at Geelong, he went to the captain and asked to be paid off and be set free. On that gentleman remonstrating with him in a quiet, kindly way, he became very violent, pulled his board and shook him about terribly. This man must have been rather meeker than the majority of sea-captains. Instead of punishing him for his wrong-doing, he gave poor Charlie the chance to sleep on the ship until she was ready to go back to Melbourne.

After a trip to various Asiatic ports, he returned to this country and went as fireman. Shortly after, he joined the Salvation Army. This was followed by a job on land, up in the bush, about fifty miles from Deniliquin. He worked very hard, putting wire fences on a sheep station, his chief duty being to fell trees and make the posts. The station was eighteen miles from whence he was working, and when pay-time came round his mate said to him.

"You go and Finish that Gate, while I go to the station and take the money." Poor Charlie waited for him in the bush, but no mate turned up that night. Next morning, finding that he did not come, he went to the station, only to discover that he had cleared out with all the money. Charlie proceeded to Deniliquin, and found that he had passed through there on his way to Melbourne. Afterwards he heard that for stealing two horses he got five years' imprisonment, and he has never seen him from that day to this.

It is extremely awkward for a man, after doing a week or two's "hard graft," to find himself done out of his money; so poor Charlie found it. He sold some of his clothes for £1, came to Melbourne, and during the short time that he stayed in the notorious neighborhoods of Little Bourke and Little Lonsdale Streets, he lived a life of poverty and immorality. He bought the detectives gave him warning that he was on their black books, and so had better clear out and go up country.

He wisely took their tip, and got work at Carrella's vineyard, on the Lilydale road. Here his impulsive, pugnacious and drinking habits soon won for him an unenviable notoriety.

One day, with a companion, he went down to Yarra Flats for a spree, and had one, with a vengeance. After drinking hard, till a late hour, at the only saloon there was in the township, the cellarman and he started for home. Just at their way they had to cross a river on a plank. The cellarman was nearly dead drunk, so Charlie carried him on his back till he got about the middle, and then, falling off, they both found themselves struggling in the stream for dear life. The other chap clutched held of Charlie by the throat, and nearly drowned him. He returned to Yarra Flats by himself, and, being drunk, slept all night under a huge gum tree, which had been planted on a spot where three men had been buried.

One day, while under a cloud to Lilydale, a trooper on horseback passed him. He, without a moment's thought, caught hold of the horse's head, gave it a wrench, which made the animal rear and plunge and knock the man off.

Returning to Melbourne once more, he continued his career of drinking and fighting. One day, after imbibing rather more than usually, he called a cabman and asked him to drive him to Collingwood, for he offered him half-a-dollar, but without success; so he pulled him off the box, and mounted the box himself. The cabman took hold of the horse's head, so that away! but he, Benjamin-like, fought with the cabman, and the cab was the fortification which he was defending. He pulled nearly everything off to fight them; but when the policeman got him in the cell that night, he gave him a good thrashing to make up for it.

Now comes the bright side of the story; without this part it might well remain undoubted.

When Charlie saw and heard Colonel Barker, on Collingwood Flat, eight years ago, he was conscious of his sins. The Army made use of Dr. Singleton's old building at that time, and while he was there God brought the door, drunk, the Spirit of God took hold of him, and made him shake from head to foot. He went to the penitent-form there, and though drunk, made the best amends, he was sober and saved when he rose up—he didn't feel the same man at all. He had been smoking and chewing for twenty-eight years, and could eat tobacco like anybody else would eat bread. When he rose from his knees, all the desire for that was gone. He had lost all relish for drinking, swearing, smoking, and chewing, altogether, and experienced no desire for them. For twenty-four times in gaol, he realizes that Jesus has pardoned his sins and made him clerical in his nature. In this case, indeed, the lion has been turned into a lamb.

WILD BEAST AND HONEY, in "Full Salvation."

BY WARRIOR.

That special CRY.

Personally, I trust it gave satisfaction all round.

Don't pass over the note to intending candidates, on another page.

A sketch of the life of Mrs. Adjt. Smith (Capt. Grace Hill) will appear next week.

Pray that God will give to D.O. McIntyre sweeping victories during the coming winter in Newfoundland.

In last week's Gazette, Lieut. DeCain should have read "LeCain."

D. O. McIntyre and Staff-Capt. Bolton will contribute to next week's CRY.

In a recent meeting at Hamilton, Mrs. Philpott gave a very interesting, though short, account of her life before conversion, also her conversion, how she could not sit still in a meeting, but found herself on her feet telling how miserable she was. She got saved in that meeting.

Illustrated lives of Brothers Cozens and Patten will appear in our next issue.

Read the General's letter to Mrs. Spurgeon in this CRY, and pray for the great preacher in his illness.

The Editor recently led the memorial service of Lieut. Curlew at Curlew Street. During the meeting, a backslider from the Lippincott corps got so convicted that he left the building went to the Lippincott barracks, and got blessedly saved.

Captain and Mrs. Ham have lost one of their children. Pray for them in their bereavement.

At one of Major Calhoun's Sunday night meetings in Ottawa, a young man got converted. On the next Wednesday night, he brought his wife and three brothers, who knelt side by side at the Cross.

The officers at Labrador have a Hallelujah schooner with the S. A. flag flying at the mast-head.

Seven souls at Toronto II. on Sunday night, Sept. 6th. Hall, lujah!

I understand that the soldiers of Nanaimo have contributed nearly $800 towards a new barracks already.

A little baby-boy was added to the family flock of Commissioner Rees a week or two ago. Mrs. Rees and children will proceed to Toronto, all being well, about the 20th of September, accompanied by Mrs. Staff-Capt. Acum.—English Cry, Aug. 29th. '91.

Bro. Ackford, of London, Ont., keeps the War Cry on his desk, still, as well as all his other pamphlets. God bless our one-armed brother.

God is still richly blessing the Western tour of Staff-Captain and Mrs. Sinco.

D.O. Beatty has had a good welcome to the Chatham Division.

The September number of the Deliverer contains a good portrait of Staff-Captain B. B. Cox, Commander of Canada.

Capt. and Mrs. Gale, of Newmarket, are rejoicing over the advent of a little boy warrior.

Capts. Yorke, of Harbor Grace, divides his congregation—men on one side the barracks, women on the other.

Ensign Logan evidently means to keep his Canadian comrades supplied with accounts of his travels.

Brigadier and Mrs. Philpott had a good welcome at Hamilton.

A morphine victim has been saved recently at Vancouver, B. C.

Major Morris' recent tour through British Columbia was a most successful one.

Read "Bereavements," in this issue.

Salvationists in uniform in Toronto half-fares on the street-cars, during the Exhibition, during the General's visit.

"The Army is very active these days, and reports are being published daily."—Peterboro' Daily Review.

Ten souls knelt at the Cross on the start for Major Calhoun's new Brantford duties.

Captains Massacar and Hayes had good success off from the Temple on Sunday, Sept. 6th. "Twenty" Hallelujahs were the words which rolled from the Temple that night. Pray that God will give this they have reached the Cross.

An account of the wonderful work of Mrs. Paul, of Oshawa, will appear in our next issue.

I understand that Mrs. Capt. Warren's baby has been unwell of late. Pray that God will strengthen them.

JESUS ONLY.

Jesus by my side
I never my guide.
Jesus alone
Sweet comfort I find.
If Jesus is near
I've nothing to fear.
Jesus will clear,
Keeps me from sin.
Jesus without
Never a doubt,
Jesus around,
My peace is profound.
Jesus above
Fills me with love.
Jesus below
No sorrow I know
Jesus before
Opens the door.
Jesus is my hope, my joy, my delight,
'Tis He who has turned my darkness to light.

FRESH FOREIGN NEWS.

Mrs. Bramwell Booth has decided to immediately extend the Nursing Work which she has for some time been organizing.

Half-nights of prayer were held throughout Africa, previous to the General's visit, and God poured down blessing upon the journeyings and meetings. The arrangement is being carried out in Australia.

Mrs. Bramwell Booth and Mrs. Bonnet-Tucker have made favorable progress towards recovery, and are hoping soon to resume their places at the front. There little twin-colonies are doing well.

Some of the largest and finest buildings in America have been secured for the Marechale's meetings, and it is expected that she will be able to commence her campaign in the Fremont Temple, Boston, Mass., to present arrangements. The Marechale will be accompanied by Mrs. Staff-Capt. Peyron, jun.

In Melbourne, Australia, the most serious flood in known history occurred, some few days ago, which has just been experienced. The Men's Social Home, with quarters for the Commissioner and Chief Secretary, had four feet of water in the lower rooms, while the Officers' and some staff-officers in the same vicinity had water nearly to the ceiling, the inmates having to be got away in boats.

The facts in connection with the death of Mrs. Staff-Capt. Morgan are most distressing.

We learn that Staff-Capt. Morgan had gone off to review the native work at Umvoti. On the following day, Mrs. Morgan was going about her work as usual when, suddenly, she fell down and died. Her husband, on returning home, found his wife of one of our Lieutenants, who lived in the next house. She came at once to her help, but, alas! too late, she was gone. She was a faithful warrior, and is now reaping her reward.

After taking part in the General's obsequies, Lieut. Col. McKie and his musical A.D.C., Staff-Capt. Platt, sailed from Auckland, on October 10th, for San Francisco. Arrangements are already in hand for an extensive tour for them in the United States.

Major Whatmore is battling along bravely in Northern Italy. He wishes us to announce that he very much needs officers, and all who are willing to give themselves up for the service of God are requested to write us without delay. Those with a knowledge of the Italian language are very much preferred.

Ensign Beddall, who became an officer in Australia, and returned to England with Commissioner Howard, has gone to Heaven. He recently filled the position of Senior Secretary in England. He was only ill eight or nine days.

Commissioner Railton has had a very successful tour through Germany.

Major and Mrs. Fry, from France, are resting in England.

Major Hartman and Staff-Capt. Dixon recently paid a special visit to every corps in Finland.

OMEMEE ON FIRE!

Notes About the Great Conflagration.

At 10.30 o'clock last night, just as we got nicely settled for the night, someone came knocking at our door yelling: "Fire! Omemee! Quickly I got to the gate to see the leading of this being fully demonstrated in a fiery, red the wind bent on lighting it all it could seemingly.

"In such an hour as we think not, the Son of Man cometh." Be ye ready."

Mrs. Paul, of Oshawa, will appear in our next issue.

I understand that Mrs. Capt. Warren's baby has been unwell of late. Pray that God will strengthen them.

JESUS ONLY.

Jesus by my side
I never my guide.
Jesus alone
Sweet comfort I find.
If Jesus is near
I've nothing to fear.
Jesus will clear,
Keeps me from sin.
Jesus without
Never a doubt,
Jesus around,
My peace is profound.
Jesus above
Fills me with love.
Jesus below
No sorrow I know
Jesus before
Opens the door.
Jesus is my hope, my joy, my delight,
'Tis He who has turned my darkness to light.

FRESH FOREIGN NEWS.

Mrs. Bramwell Booth has decided to immediately extend the Nursing Work which she has for some time been organizing.

Half-nights of prayer were held throughout Africa, previous to the General's visit, and God poured down blessing upon the journeyings and meetings. The arrangement is being carried out in Australia.

Mrs. Bramwell Booth and Mrs. Bonnet-Tucker have made favorable progress towards recovery, and are hoping soon to resume their places at the front. There little twin-colonies are doing well.

Some of the largest and finest buildings in America have been secured for the Marechale's meetings, and it is expected that she will be able to commence her campaign in the Fremont Temple, Boston, Mass., to present arrangements. The Marechale will be accompanied by Mrs. Staff-Capt. Peyron, jun.

In Melbourne, Australia, the most serious flood in known history occurred, some few days ago, which has just been experienced. The Men's Social Home, with quarters for the Commissioner and Chief Secretary, had four feet of water in the lower rooms, while the Officers' and some staff-officers in the same vicinity had water nearly to the ceiling, the inmates having to be got away in boats.

The facts in connection with the death of Mrs. Staff-Capt. Morgan are most distressing.

We learn that Staff-Capt. Morgan had gone off to review the native work at Umvoti. On the following day, Mrs. Morgan was going about her work as usual when, suddenly, she fell down and died. Her husband, on returning home, found his wife of one of our Lieutenants, who lived in the next house. She came at once to her help, but, alas! too late, she was gone. She was a faithful warrior, and is now reaping her reward.

After taking part in the General's obsequies, Lieut. Col. McKie and his musical A.D.C., Staff-Capt. Platt, sailed from Auckland, on October 10th, for San Francisco. Arrangements are already in hand for an extensive tour for them in the United States.

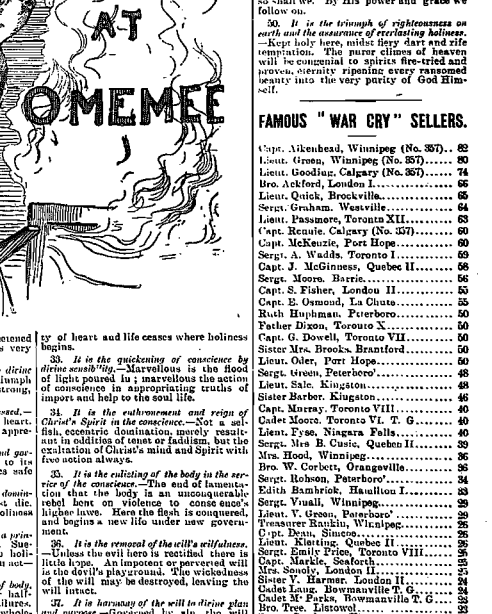
Major Whatmore is battling along bravely in Northern Italy. He wishes us to announce that he very much needs officers, and all who are willing to give themselves up for the service of God are requested to write us without delay. Those with a knowledge of the Italian language are very much preferred.

Ensign Beddall, who became an officer in Australia, and returned to England with Commissioner Howard, has gone to Heaven. He recently filled the position of Senior Secretary in England. He was only ill eight or nine days.

Commissioner Railton has had a very successful tour through Germany.

Major and Mrs. Fry, from France, are resting in England.

Major Hartman and Staff-Capt. Dixon recently paid a special visit to every corps in Finland.



HOLINESS:

FIFTY DEFINITIONS.

BY MAJOR GOVER.

1. It is the revelation of God's mind and heart to man.—Various ancient writers show the compass of His revelation to the peculiar tenets they represent. God's great proclamation to the world is, "Be ye holy as I am holy."

2. It is the glory of God in man on earth.—Far more than riches, knowledge, or numerical strength, God's great purpose is to revive the soul assurance of divine aid always.

3. It is the expression of His power to save to the uttermost.—No mere sentimental appeal of His power to save, but a clear and daily display of accomplished deliverances.

4. It is the seal of divine approval of Christ's triumph on Calvary.—As He triumphed over sin on the Cross, so may we because of that Cross.

5.—It is the perfecting of His will in us.—There may be higher perfections to be made manifest, but perfecting in holiness is the zenith of earth's meridian.

6. It is the completion of His purpose for man in his general estate.—That we be holy men and holy women, is God's first order in this, but, as at present existing, rendering holy service to Him continually.

7. It is the harmony of human discord with divine peace.—The consuming hush of the soul and its attributes from all strife with His will—the merging of twain into one spirit and one mind.

8. It is the attesting trophy of the redeemed to Christ's resurrection.—Each holy heart is a witness that Christ rose from the dead. That He has risen from the grave, a mortal voices, as of many waters, bear witness this day.

9. It is the one absolute condition in which sin are God.—Man's inability to see God is due to sin, it obscures the soul's vision, perverts the mind's judgment, makes even science inert, destroys the moral balance. Only the holy see God.

10. It is the one condition in which man are acceptable to God.—Not by one act, or one prayer, or one tear, or one consecration, are men made acceptable to God, but by patient continuance in well-doing. Holiness is a state, not an isolated action.

11. It is the birth and life-fruit of His travail.—This is the yearning cry of all His unchisled spirit. This is the only heart-hope that upbuilds. This is the agony, this the meaning of the opened door of the tomb.

12. It is the highest possible glory of man on earth.—That poor, sin-shattered humanity should be recovered were a marvel. That it should be restored is marvellous, that it should be sanctified and redeemed is more marvellous still.

13. It is the divinizing of every redeemed faculty.—Man's soul alone been saved, great would be His praise; but all it is to unite soul, body, soul and spirit out of sin's dominion. Possessing all in purity and grace.

14. It is the Christ's possessment of man's nature.—Not that we may companion or fellowship with angels, but for His own praise and glory did He thus pray, "That they all may be one even as We are one."

15. It is man's possessment of Christ's nature.—The agonizing work is the day of preparation and preparation, the positive that of reception and possession. Blessed thought, He gives Himself to me as well as He gave Himself for me.

16. It is God in man, and man in God.—Sublime mystery.

17. It is divine light and grace in human nature.—To save, not to destroy, has He come. Human nature saved and sweetened by light and grace divine becomes very beautiful in its perfected state.

18. It is human nature flooded with divine grace and light.—Here is the triumph of holiness, that it is all-sufficient, strong, and ever-growing.

19. It is divine love humanly expressed.—The child's reading of the Father's heart. The creature's finite response to the apprehension of infinite love.

20. It is human nature possessed and governed by divine love.—Subduing all to its service, holding all in its impulsive sweep, and ever-watchful against all temptation.

21. It is full deliverance from sin's dominion.—Sin's rule must cease—must die. Where sin is, holiness cannot be. Holiness begins where sin ends.

22. It is the destruction of sin life as a principle.—Repression is not destruction. Suppressed sin does not imply or cause holiness. Sin is a principle as well as an act, which must be destroyed entirely.

23. It is the entire, whole surrender of body, soul and spirit to God.—Divided or half-hearted surrender explains many failures. Victorious holiness is the result of whole, unreserved surrendering all to God. Try it.

24. It is the responsive act and power of God to that surrender.—Just that fire-answering touch, or the still small voice that begets in the soul its mighty future of power. Sin dies at its touch, weakness becomes strength, love triumphs.

25. It is active evidence of God's presence in the soul.—Holiness is emphatic and definite. It is the will's willingness to work righteousness always.—No controversy, debate or contention; holy principle plants strong. There are now no yearnings for aught that tendeth to unrighteousness.

40. It is the purging of the mind from impure tendencies. The remedy of erratic thought, the possession of which begets paralysis of will, the sure precursor of fall.

41. It is the re-creation of the spirit of the mind.—Not new nature with new implantings, discarding the old root and branch. With new government begins and continues a new life.

42. It is the mind's continual possession by the Spirit of Jesus.—As differing from the spirit of selfishness. It is now constantly held by the power of love and predisposed to act always as Jesus acted.

43. It is the mind's energy, God-possessed and governed.—Not merely passive and plastic, but consciously active by divine possession, and thus always preserved.

44. It is the unification of body, soul and spirit in love and worship.—The blending or agreement of each in purity of action.

45. It is human assent to divine consent.—Made possible by the removal of the opposing principle, made quickly by God, there is the readiest approval of all sanctioning the divine permit.

46. It is the response of the redeemed to the Heaven.—The response of the same-cry of human life in its deliverance from sin to purity and freedom through the blood of Jesus Christ.

47. It is the consciousness of God's presence in the world.—Far more than oral preachments, or letter evidences, is the voice-power of daily action, thus declaring the Author-presence of all goodness and truth.

48. It is the spirit and nature of divine holiness.—To see Him even as He is like Him. The pure only see or know God. Then the earnest of sonship must be found in oneness of spirit and nature.

49. It is the trophy, pathway, assurance and earnest of heaven.—Reconciled to the nature of God, preserved in the ways of righteousness, sanctified by the Spirit of holiness. The promise is that as He overcame, so shall we. By His power and grace we follow on.

50. It is the triumph of righteousness on earth and the assurance of everlasting holiness.—Kept holy here, midst fiery dart and rife temptation. The purest times of human life will be congenial to spirits fire-tried and proven, eternity ripening every ransomed beauty into the very purity of God Himself.

FAMOUS "WAR CRY" SELLERS.

Capt. Aikenhead, Winnipeg (No. 357)..	82
Lieut. Green, Winnipeg (No. 357).....	80
Lieut. Goodliue, Calgary (No. 357).....	74
Bro. Ackford, London I.....	65
Lieut. Quick, Brockville.....	65
Sergt. Graham, Westville.....	64
Lieut. Tarpenter, Toronto XII.....	63
Capt. Reaule, Calgary (No. 357).....	60
Capt. McKenzie, Port Hope.....	60
Sergt. A. Wadds, Toronto I.....	59
Capt. J. McGinness, Quebec II.....	58
Sergt. Moore, Barrie.....	56
Capt. S. Jones, Toronto II.....	55
Lieut. E. Osmond, La Chute.....	55
Ruth Huphman, Peterboro.....	50
Father Dixon, Toronto X.....	50
Capt. G. Dowell, Toronto VII.....	50
Sister Mrs. Brooks, Brantford.....	50
Lieut. Oder, Port Hope.....	50
Capt. Sparks, Peterboro.....	48
Lieut. Sale, Kingston.....	48
Sister Barber, Kingston.....	46
Capt. Murray, Toronto VIII.....	40
Cadet Moore, Toronto VI. T. G.....	40
Lieut. Fyse, Niagara Falls.....	40
Sergt. Major Ritchie, Quebec II.....	39
Mrs. Hood, Winnipeg.....	36
Bro. W. Corbett, Orangeville.....	36
Sergt. Robson, Peterboro'.....	34
Edith Bambrick, Hamilton I.....	33
Sergt. Vuall, Winnipeg.....	29
Lieut. Hoskins, London I.....	28
Treasurer Rankin, Winnipeg.....	26
Capt. Dean, Simcoe.....	26
Lieut. Ellis, Toronto II.....	26
Sergt. Emily Price, Toronto VIII.....	26
Capt. Markle, Seaforth.....	25
Sister Mrs. Bowmanville.....	25
Sister Y. Harmer, London II.....	24
Cadet Lang, Bowmanville T. G.....	24
Sergt. Major Parks, Bowmanville T. G.....	23
Bro. Tree, Listowel.....	23
Sergt. Sawberry, Kingston.....	23
Lieut. Bishop, Brockville.....	22
Cadet Bishop, Bowmanville T. G.....	22
Cadet Wilson, Bowmanville T. G.....	21
Sister L. Mayberry, Corwall.....	21
Cadet W. Bradford, Toronto VI. T. G...	20
Mrs. Ham, Midland.....	20
Sergt. Jane Ham, Corwall.....	20
Mrs. Lee, Cornwall.....	20
Mrs. Webb, Calgary.....	20

PROMOTION TO GLORY

Of Capt. Unni Moss.

"Millions there are safely landed,
Over on the shining shore."

Hitherto our brother has belonged to the "Home more" that are "on their journey," but now he has safely crossed the Jordan, reaching the presence chamber of the great God.

How did he live?

As a man who reckons that the time is short, and that he must redeem the precious moments of it.

How did he die?

As a man who has 'fought a good fight," and is not ashamed to render in his account before the Throne.

Until Moss was an officer of some years' standing, a man who applied for the work because he had heard the cry for help, and felt he dare not hear in vain. He had read the WAR CRY, having his soul stirred within him at the accounts of the needs of the war everywhere, and the call for volunteers. "Why should not I go?" he asked himself. Would that many more would ask their own hearts just that question, and seeking to purify the inner consciousness of duty by compromising with their God! There's many a life wrecked and a death made terrible by the rebellion of a moment! The bitterness of a moment must last through all eternity.

But we digress with Capt. Moss; he heard the call and answered.

He was an Englishman by birth, whose parents had emigrated to Canada while he was still a lad. His early life was a godly one, but his heart remained unchanged until he, at Hamilton, revival meeting, he first felt the distinct and powerful workings of the convicting Spirit of God. The main purpose of his presence in that house of God had been one to be derived from such a service; the great passion that shortly after possessed his heart was a burning desire to be right with his Creator, and be made a child of the Kingdom. For this he knelt publicly at the altar rails, realizing the forgiveness of sin and the change of heart that Salvationists so delight to talk about—he was saved.

Keen Expectation of Fun

Of course, when the Army came across Moss' pathway, he liked them so much that he "couldn't stay away," and became a good soldier in the ranks, until again God called him to a larger sphere.

When writing afterwards to Commissioner Coombs—a candidate for the work, he says, "I want to give my time, my life, my all, to save the lost." No wonder God used him in the Salvation of souls. He would use many more if, in the same spirit of consecration, they would surrender themselves unto His service, without the reservation which has so cursed the Church of God everywhere in the past. Oh, for men and women who should rise to that the Kingdom of Heaven might go forward and dying souls be saved! Do we pick and choose our work? Do we murmur at the way we are led, turning with hungry eyes back to the Egypt we have left? There is no victory for us, there never will be, while we have sunk completely out of self into Christ.

Serve, Fight, Lose, Suffer, Die.

All our departed comrade's good deeds we cannot chronicle down here; they are safely recorded in the Lamb's book of life do follow. His was a devoted life, however, leading on to a triumphant death. Though at the last an agony of pain overcame his mind, and the waters of Jordan would roughly wash around his feet, there was no sign of fear in the only prayer I heard that if the Lord saw fit to raise him up again, he would seek out the battle's front once more. A.

A Parting Testimony, before the gates on the other side opened to receive him, was an exclamation, "The way is clear. There may be a struggle at the end, but the way is clear!" Later on, when a paroxysm of pain seized him, he cried to the doctor, "Talk of death-bed repentance! I would not repent now. How I do thank God I am saved!"

And so our brother went to glory. There were no bands in his death, because there were no reverend chieftains in his life.

He died in the States, whither he had gone to seek health, if so the Lord willed. We have not, even these briefly, put our brother's life into the WAR CRY, simply because we wanted to do honor to the dead; we remember his living, and that is why we write. Perhaps, readers, you are inclined to lay aside this part of the paper as a gloomy one. You need not. There is when the Blood of Jesus Christ has made clean the heart. If that is not done, then life will be gloomy as well as death, and there can be no lasting joy in your heart. We Salvationists speak plain words about the things which pertain unto eternity; we dare do nothing else; one time we knew no more about the "joy of knowing Jesus," than perhaps you do; we better loved our dancings, our frolics, our pleasures, ourselves, but we were blind and did not know; then we came to Jesus, having had revealed unto our sin-sick hearts the hollowness of the world's gifts, and the folly of a life spent in its service. We find in GOOD to serve the Lord. Just as good in life as we are assured it will be when our feet get into the valley of the great shadow, and methinks there won't be much of the shadow about while Jesus lights it with His presence.

No Gloom in Death,

Staff-Capt. B. B. Cox.

SHE IS VERY LOW.

Lieut. Whittaker's father writes the following letter to the Editor:—

EDITOR WAR CRY.—I send you a song composed by my daughter just before she was taken to bed, and send it at her request. She is very weak yet, but a little better than last week. She seems well at heart and well in soul, cheerful and happy, but has no use of her body, and seems to have lost all muscular power, and can only sit up a few minutes at a time. I have taken her to Jesus and left her in His hands, knowing that "He doeth all things well." Pray for us in this our affliction, that we may endure to the end. My experience is now that I find Jesus an all-sufficient Friend and Comforter, in Whom I have full confidence. Yours, fighting,

A. A. WHITTAKER, Auxiliary.

CAPTAIN UNNI MOSS.

HOLINESS.

CONVERSATION.

BY MAJOR ALBERT OSBORN.

It is not a fact that the conversation which some professors indulge in gives a flat denial to their profession even of conversion, and of time to the profession of a clean heart?

A Shameful Contradiction

I have met with many who have shared with me the sad feelings of grief and shame over the conversation of those who have verily been a stumbling-block, until it has made one wonder sometimes,

Is There Any Holiness at All?

after hearing the empty twaddle of some professors of it—nay, I say still more, after hearing the positive, sensual, and sinful talk of some whose very words become a frightful hindrance to spirituality in those around them.

The memory of a conversation carried on by a much older convert than myself about nine years ago at my stables will never leave me, and although he professed a clean heart, it positively staggered the thoughts and soul-saving desires of myself and Lieutenant in a terrible manner, but the terrible sequel followed. That man six months afterwards.

Made a Fearful Shipwreck

But to be short and plain. Two men were travelling over a rugged pathway after heavy rains, sometimes over sandy flinks and rocky barriers, but all the time engaged in a deep and earnest conversation; the glances they gave one another showed that the subject was an intense one, so intense that they did not notice a third party draw near until they heard his voice startle them with these words.

"What Manner of Communications are These That ye Have by the Way?"

Thank God, they were able to turn round and give a satisfactory reply, but you, if asked the same about what you said, after that last meeting, about the Captain, or that fellow warrior, or that talk at the tea-table, or that little secret you had to tell, or that gossip in the train, where so many characters of others have been damned, what would you say?

Remember There is a Third Party always listening.

A frequent sign of a backslidden heart is too much talk. An empty barrel makes the most noise. "Oh, but I must talk, I don't like people to think me so solemn," you say. Indeed, but is it not better to be misunderstood than be condemned over your empty talk, and blight other peoples' souls with your nonsense? When there's a frost on your mouth there's generally a thaw on your mind, and a thinking man generally does more real work in his lifetime than one whose chief characteristic is empty talk. I am sure it pleases God if, when you have nothing business-like, pure and good to talk of, then you Hold Your Noise.

Don't you know God complained of those who professed to be His servants and leaders because they "Caused People to Err by Their Lightness,"

(Jer. xxiii. 32), so if you are a recognized leader of others, beware!

Where do we find any authority for believing that it is a sign of grace and life when a man can handle eternal realities in a most foolish and flippant manner? So much so that his conversation (and so-called prayer) at times repel one's soul and mind so as to completely shut out all possibility for anyone with a clean heart taking part in the same. Do we not read that "out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh?" Very well, then, judging by this principle laid down by Him Who one is bound to conclude from the conversation of some professors of holiness that their "abundance" of the heart, according to the fruit in their mouth, is foolery, emptiness, envy, hard temper, and jealousy, for, after all, that which is uppermost in a man's heart will jump out of his mouth.

"Spake as Never Man Spake,"

However, let us take the conclusion of the whole matter, a few simple rules are laid down for us in the Book. We are told to "have sound speech which cannot be condemned," and to "use great plainness of speech," and when speaking of others, which it is necessary to do sometimes, then "speak not and "let your speech be always with grace, seasoned with salt," and the Apostle says it all by saying, "If any man offend not in word, the same is a perfect man."

Truth in Love,"

Comrade, if you say you have the heart, you want to live up to this, and you are come into eternity, you will be amongst those who

"Being Dead yet Speaketh," but if you do not live up to it, despite all the good you possess a close shut, because you do not.

THE 30,000.

This is our goal. This is what we are aiming at. This is the weekly circulation our hearts pant after. Shall we reach it? Decidedly we shall if D.O., P.O., and Field officers unite to their duty valiantly.

Our present figure is 28,000. To attain we must add another 2,000. This is quite a time between this and Christmas, and we feel doth hinder our reaching the mark by Christmas Day. But 2,000 in 3,000 is not a big number among 30,000 of our comrades. It means about 40 additional WAR CRYS taken each week.

We thank God for the signs of the time. Oh! if we can only create interest in the matter, the 30,000 will soon be an accomplish fact. Our Eastern comrades seem to help. The Western warriors are now in the fray. Ontario and Quebec officers, soldiers, and friends will do their share, and thus our circulation will soon rise to 30,000 weekly.

Now that the Christmas have been arranged, each D.O. will have a great scope and opportunity to rush forward in new lines in order to push the Cry. Divisions will vie with each other. Sixty will fight station. WAR CRY sellers will do battle, and all round we shall see a general move towards the goal of victory—30,000. God grant it.

Of course by the time our readers look through these notes, many of them will be aware of the fact that "Quiz" has taken "Pry's" place in the Competition Note. We can reckon that his quizzing and noting will do much to the increased circulation of both the CRY and Young Soldier. Pray for "Quiz," and don't forget "Pry," he will see that the Young Soldier Notes are attended to weekly.

Naturally last week's special Cry had a good show, and the List was increased very materially, nearly fourteen hundred additional copies having been sent on. Now, why should not these additional increased orders be kept up?

Each officer will wish to have a finger in the pie, and now is the time for every Field Officer to make a stir and a move, so as to accomplish something great. The Commissioner will watch this scene with great interest, and note all advances on this line.

We are very anxious to publish week by week the life sketches and portraits of the most successful Out-door Officers, and those who sell over 100 weekly give their name to the Captain, and ask him to send it pro rata to the Editor, Albert Street, Toronto. We think it nothing but proper that the Canadian Field at large should be thus benefitted by the experience of others.

"It has often been a matter of wonderment to us how many public libraries, mechanics' and literary institutes, and other public institutions get a copy of the CRY. We are afraid not many. There must be some hundreds in the country, if these will find a copy presented weekly by some of our friends, what a slice of the 30,000 these copies would make right straight away! They would be sent to interest some scores of ordinary work of the Army, and a host of friends would eventually be made in this way. Instances illustrative of this are:

"Clover as the CRY folks are, they are not above taking a wrinkle or two, or a thousand for the matter of that. So, if you have an idea of any description that would help to enlarge the CRY now (interesting as we hope it is), try it on yourself, but send it along instanter."

"Remember 'knowledge is power,' and we believe you want to be as powerful and to make the CRY as powerful for the Kingdom as it is possible."

"Help us, everybody, and remember that the 'Cry' exists only to disseminate salvation. Pray over the boom and back up your prayers with your works, and to write on all the good things that come every day in the week in connection with the Army meetings and work. Do please send us along that interesting news concerning your corps, that ill-bit Capt. So-and-So related the other day, or that silling item out of your own experience, which would be so helpful to a whole crowd of our readers. Write it out and send it along at once. Don't fail."

We Shall Succeed, Without a Doubt."

"Oh, for a Thousand Pens!

(More next week.)

THE OLD, OLD STORY.

BY LUTHER.

TUNE—Don't leave the farm, boys, boys, friends, I have something to tell you.

A story quite simple and plain,
Though you have heard it so often,
Still I must tell it again;
The story of Christ, the Redeemer,
And the love that can never decay,
The one the blest message of mercy,
I sing of you turn not away.

CHORUS.

Enlist as a soldier to-day,
Your time is fast passing away,
King Jesus will find you true victory,
And Satan will flee in dismay.

Do talk of your worldly amusements,
Of the honor and wealth you will win,
And I know there are many attractions
To draw you to pleasure and sin.
But none of them give satisfaction,
They only can lead you astray,
They give you no assurance to Heaven,
Nor help on the great Judement Day.

All around you are friends and companions,
Vain lovers of fashion and show;
Who are travelling heedless to danger,
Down the dark cavern of woe.
Be boldly march forth to the rescue,
With hearts full of faith and of love,
Break the power of Satan's allurements,
And lead them to Heaven above.

The love of the Saviour's undying,
The pardon He offers is free
Was purchased for all on Calvary,
Then why there is cleansing for thee.
There's a home in the heavenly city,
Prepared for the brave and the true,
There's rest for the troubled and weary,
And soon will the journey be through.

OUR THREE BRAVE

French Canadian Officers.

A Look at Captain Drolet.

DRINK HIS MASTER—TERRIBLE PERSECUTION—BLOOD FLOWED FREELY.

From childhood he was taught to fear God and to serve Him. Quebec is his native place, where he was ushered into this world in the year 1868. At the age of five years he was sent to school, and the first thing he learned was to commit to memory the prayers as the "invocation of saints," etc. Neglecting these prayers very often, he thought they were only a sin, his mother would tell him if he didn't mind himself he would become a Protestant.

Passing over the more advanced stages of schoolboy days, we find him at the age sixteen learning the carpenter's business. Of course, now that he was working, he felt he was getting to be a man, and drinking, gambling, and many other such amusements were his pastimes. During all this time he was a regular attendant at the church services, not from the love of worshipping the Saviour, but

BECAUSE HE WAS OBLIGED TO GO.

One night while seeking pleasure he stayed into an auctioneer's shop, and it was there he first heard about the Salvation Army. When the boys would be making too much noise the auctioneer would call them to order, and then he would go to the Salvation Army and hear those

THREE OR FOUR FOOLS PREACH.

Philippe being one of the curious kind, he was now anxious to hear these fools preached. He was greatly interested in the proceedings, and became a regular attendant at the meetings.

For about three months he attended regularly, when he was forbidden to go any more. This was a sting for him to do. Although he wasn't converted, still he liked the Army meetings, for it was there he heard the way of Salvation preached so plainly, but he had to give it all up since any more. He could not keep away from the Army however, and used to try and convert his mates, following the S. A. marches every night.

THE CHURCH FORBADE HIM TO GO

One Sunday afternoon while out walking with some friends, he was told that the Army had been cruelly treated, and that one man had a basket filled with stones to be hurled at them. Of course he was very interested in hearing about the Salvationists. He was filled with disgust at this news, but a few minutes afterwards he was in view for himself, in the shape of passing in a wagon, his blood fairly boiled in his veins with indignation at this cruel treatment.

BLOOD RUNNING DOWN THEIR FACES

A few weeks after this he fell at the foot of the Cross and cried for pardon, which he soon received. From that moment the fear of death left him, for he realized his peace was made with God.

For over two years he attended the meetings as a convert, when, on Nov. 4th, 1888,

HE BECAME AN ENROLLED SOLDIER.

During these years since his conversion he has had to pass through great darkness. All his former friends forsook him, and even those of his own household were against him. One night his father went to the barracks to bring him out, and when he got him home he told him that there was no longer a home for him under the paternal roof, unless he promised never to go back to these meetings.

Our comrade was filled with anguish at these words, but feeling that he was not guilty of any crime, he resolved to continue in the way in which he was so certain God had called him, so he decided to LEAVE HIS HOME RATHER THAN HIS GOD.

He hadn't gone far, however, when his sister called after him. She was weeping bitterly, and she said his father decided to let him stay for another while at home.

Having heard the call for the Field, and having strived for a long time, he at last sent in his application, was accepted, and sent to the opening of Montreal IV. Here he fought for over a year, during which time he was promoted to the rank of Lieut., and then to the rank of Captain. He is now in charge of Montreal III., and loves the work. He loves God with all his heart, and is determined, with His help, to be faithful until death.

Lieut. Marcotte's Career.

(A MIRACLE OF GOD'S SAVING POWER.)

His early days were passed pretty much as the average young man of the present day pass theirs—in seeking after worldly pleasures and having a good time in general. When only fifteen years of age he began to drink and use tobacco. At a year later found him a pretty regular attendant at balls, theatres, and other places of amusement. Saturday night generally used to be a time of and as long as his week's wages lasted he had a good time, only to be followed on the following morning by regrets and remorse of conscience over the way he had carried on. This life continued, and he was getting to be an adept in the ways of sin, when God, in His mercy, stepped in and stopped him in his downward career.

DRINKING AND AMUSEMENT,

It was towards the end of the summer of 1886 that our comrade saw by the papers that the Salvation Army was going to open fire on Quebec, among the French Canadians of that city, and some time after he heard that the first shot was fired. Our comrade was very interested in seeing the who preached, and prayed, and sang in turns, but the noise that the crowd was making made it difficult to hear what they said. Returning to the hall on another occasion, they began to pray, and while singing the chorus,

FOUR WOMEN ON THE PLATFORM,

"You never can tell when the death bell is tolling,
You never can tell when you end may be," the words touched his heart, and he fancied he heard a voice saying to him, "If you should die to-night, where would you spend eternity?" He became deeply convicted, knelt at the Cross, and cried for pardon. The Light soon streamed into his and he realized that God had saved him. He became a soldier, and after fighting against great odds for some time, he applied for the work, was accepted, and soon was telling the simple story of the Cross to others. For several months he fought bravely, but while in a rather hard section, he took sick, and as a result, with the result, he got discouraged and went home. He tried to satisfy himself with his old companions and habits, but all to no avail. He again came to the Cross and received pardon for the past. After fighting as a soldier for some time, he again applied for the work, was accepted, and is now fighting as an officer in one of our French corps in Montreal.

DARKENED SOUL,

Cadet Belleau.

A WONDERFUL RESTORATION.

The Cadet first saw the light in Quebec city. He was born of French Canadian parents, and brought up in the religion of his fathers, and like many more young men of the present day, he went in for the pleasures of the world. He left school when fifteen years of age, and started to work. He soon got in with bad company, and in a short time became an adept at

DRINKING, AND USING TOBACCO.

His week's wages would be spent in drinking, and frequenting hotels, with his companions. This kind of life naturally led him to think little of God, and he almost came to the point where he didn't believe there was a God at all. Sometimes he would go to church.

BECAUSE HE SAW OTHERS GOING, and sometimes he prayed, but, in his own words, "Oh, what prayers!"

About the month of October, 1886, he heard the Salvation Army had commenced to hold meetings in Quebec, and of course he went to see what war meant. The religious belief, but great was his surprise when he found they preached only "Jesus Christ and Him crucified."

His heart was touched with compassion when he saw the four lass officers so earnestly treated and persuaded for simply making Christ as the Saviour of the world. Continuing to go to the meetings, he became convicted of his sins, and got as far very miserable. One of the officers asked him the question, "Where will you spend your Eternity—will it be in Heaven or in hell?" This question haunted him; he could not get rid of it. He longed to go to the foot of the Cross and have his sins washed away, but he feared the consequences. He knew what he would have to endure from his former companions.

Finally, one Sunday afternoon, the session that was read (Rev. iii., 5) struck home, and at the close of the meeting

HE WENT TO THE PENITENT-FORM, where he cried for pardon, and in a very few moments he realized a change in his heart. From that moment he was persecuted on all sides, and after a hard fight against discouragement, and

CAPT. DROLET.

NOTES ON THE S.A. CAMP-MEETINGS AT GUELPH.

On Saturday, August 15th, dodgers were flying around which told of the camp-meetings that were to commence that night.

The brass and timbrel bands looked quite imposing as they marched up to the Exhibition Grounds for the opening meetings.

Sunday, all day, was an eventful one. Oldtime comrades were there to praise the glory to God, Old Soldiers among them was Aunty Brown and "Our Solomon," who is giving his testimony, said he thought God is had his testimony, said he thought God is had his feathers (or uniform), and he was not chirping, but crowing (shouting).

Staff-Capt. Sharp and Scribe Peard said good-bye to night and renounced the people very much by their parting counsel.

Envoys Cunningham, who had come in on the Saturday, said good-bye on Monday night to a nice crowd of people.

Tuesday was a field day for the Juniors, led by Sergt.-Major Carter, who was a good successor. I am sure by the way they pitched in at the tables they ought to have sang, "We shall conquer all." An interesting meeting was held at night and several testimonies given of God's power to save. God bless the Juniors.

The meetings on Wednesday were led by Capt. Woodall and Adjt. Young, of that famous place, Rockwood.

Thursday had been announced as a musical meeting. As we were forming for a march, we were agreeably surprised to see Staff-Capt. Bolton and Adjt. Michiel pull up in front of the barracks, they having come in from Toronto to give us a few days at the meetings.

Some very nice selections were played in the meetings by the brass band. Neither were the lassies behind with their timbrels. In fact, at the close of the meetings they gave such material assistance that somebody suggested they should henceforth be called, "The Angel Band." God bless the lassies.

Bandsman Brown sang a solo, part of the chorus running as follows, "There's somebody buried in Gethsemane." Mr. Woodall helped out with her guitar, or as D.O. Bolton called it, "The Plung-plung."

On Friday night Staff-Capt. Bolton and Envoys Michiel led a lively, jelly and entertaining meeting.

Saturday night we welcomed our new D.O., Brigadier Philpott, who straightway went in for God and souls. May you long be spared to come amongst us, Brigadier.

Sunday, all day, the Staff had the meetings well in hand and very great good was done. In the afternoon Staff-Capt. Sweetman dropped in on us and looked quite fatherly. At night, great good was done. Souls were held spell-bound. The Staff said good-bye.

Monday was our last day, and it was a good one. In the afternoon and night meetings four came out for Salvation, and one for Sanctification. In the afternoon a strong wind came and blew the tents down, but with several willing hands we got up one tent in a few minutes.

Good crowds attended all through, and upwards of twenty came out for Salvation and Sanctification. Afternoon meetings were held and a collection made a short time before each day. The Parks Committee have been very generous and kind to us, giving us every privilege. We have had some good times, too. The local papers have also contributed a lot of help by daily making mention of the meetings.

The backsliders stuck nobly to their post, and their music was much appreciated by all—one friend getting so blessed by them that he broke in a chuck for $5 to help them on. Thanks. Go thou and do likewise.

While there meetings have been going on, death has been doing its work, and several of our soldiers have been called to stand by the bedside of their loved ones and bid them adieu for a time, hoping to see them on the Resurrection Day.

May the Lord bless those who remain of Brother and Sister Wheatstone and family, Sister Moore and family, and Brother Crawford. God doeth all things well.

CAPT. W. J. TURNER.

THE GENERAL WRITES TO MRS. SPURGEON.

We cull the following letter from the September Deliverer just to hand:—

Just before sailing for South Africa the General wrote to Mrs. Spurgeon the following:

July 24, 1899.

Dear Mrs. Spurgeon,—

I cannot leave England without again assuring you of my deep sympathy with you in the grief and anxiety through which you are now passing.

Less than one year ago I also stood in the shadows among which you are now watching, and know something therefore of the conflicting hopes and fears with which you are now day by day contending.

If the opportunity offers, please assure Mr. Spurgeon that I am hoping and praying for his recovery. Our acquaintance has been so slight that he will know that I desire this most of all for his people's sake and in the interests of the kingdom of Jesus Christ.

Will you kindly send me a telegram to the R. M. S. "Scot," Southampton, about noon to-morrow giving the latest tidings?

Praying that the Master may strengthen your heart to endure this protracted strain.

Believe me, dear Mrs. Spurgeon,
Yours faithfully,
(Signed) WILLIAM BOOTH.

And received the following telegraphic reply on board the "Scot" four hours sailing:—

Beulah Hill, 12.10 p.m., 12.29 p.m.

General Booth, Royal Mail Steamer "Scot," Southampton:

I thank you heartily for your kind letter. There is no improvement in my dear husband's condition; but he is in God's hands. Christian love and best wishes.

MRS. SPURGEON.

CONTEMPLATION.

ROBERT LESLIE VICKERS, EMERSON.

Contemplation, what a rapture, lasting pleasure,
Glory! Glory! Glory!
What heights, what depths, what lengths, what breadths!
Glory! Glory! Glory!

The waters of life are sweeter!
Glory! Glory! Glory!
Pure as the emissaries of Heaven!
Glory! Glory! Glory!

With the Book of God before me,
Glory! Glory! Glory!
And the love of Christ within me,
Glory! Glory! Glory!

Pure devotion is God-like bliss,
Glory! Glory! Glory!
Holy joy has no horizon,
Glory! Glory! Glory!

Tis vast, without circumference,
Glory! Glory! Glory!
Tis long as Eternity,
Glory! Glory! Glory!

READ AND BE BLESSED.

"The way to Heaven is straight and plain." Thy Christ-saver's path is very narrow and at times very lonely; it is the Christ-path. Sorrow is there in abundance, intermingled with the deepest of joy.

Holiness means victory, but it does not insure freedom from trial.

"And He shall be like us the light of the morning, when the sun riseth, a morning without clouds, as the tender grass springing up out of the earth by clear shining after rain."

Feelings are very nice to enjoy, but it is faith that taketh hold of the promises of the Almighty, and bringeth victory and blessing unsold into our everyday life.

God is waiting to come into every detail of your life, and make it all joy.

The success of the past, taken in any sense, is always encouragement for the success of the future, and so in your soul's experience, the victories achieved in the past, the blessings received in hours of darkness, the voice of Jesus, the light of heaven, in fact, a general review of days gone by, should be an inspiration to a more perfect trust and to a calmer rest for future hours of conflict with the soul's great enemy.

Oh, for wisdom to win souls!

God's promises are not mere ornaments, to be looked upon and admired, but each one, when claimed by faith, yielded to the soul fruit in abundance. SOJOURNER.

ORIGINAL SALVATION SONGS.

1. FOR HEART BACKSLIDERS

BY BLANCHE D. COX.

TUNE—Shiloh.

My God, and dare I follow Thee
With less of love than used to be?
Must zeal and faith and hope decline,
Because hell's forces all combine?
Dare I so treat my vows as nought,
Or lose the soul Thy blood has bought?

Thy Spirit and Thy Word declare,
That those who follow Thee must bear
The self-denying cross of Calvary,
Emblem of death and victory.
Dear Lord, my life again is Thine,
If but Thy grace and cross be mine.

Oh, Holy Ghost, Thy power I feel,
Does all my sore backslidings heal;
Salvation from my self I claim,
And grace to conquer through Thy name.
Our purpose hence our soul shall foil,
One song of praise my glad heart roll.

2. WILL FOLLOW THEE.

BY SERGT. MAGGIE SMITH, PETERBORO'.

TUNE—I'm climbing to the Cross.

Dear Lord, I want just now to be
A soldier true and brave,
To work, and live, and fight for Thee
And strip the lost to save.

CHORUS.

I will follow Thee, dear Lord,
I will follow Thee, dear Lord,
I'll follow Thee, dear Lord,
Though hard the fight may be,
Then will give me strength, dear Lord,
I'll follow Thee, I'll follow Thee, dear Lord.

I want to live each day for Thee,
And do Thy blessed will,
And conquer in the hardest fight,
While I work for Jesus still.

Oh help me, Lord, just now to be
A soldier true and brave,
That I may ever fight for Thee,
And count the world as dross.

Dear Jesus, I will fight for Thee
Until the battle's over,
And then you will give me Heaven above
To dwell for evermore.

3. COME TO JESUS.

TUNE—What a Friend we have in Jesus.

Won't you come to Jesus, sinner?
Won't you come to Jesus now?
Give up sin and worldly pleasures,
Christ wants to give you greater joy.
Are you not yet tired of sinning?
Are you not prepared to die?
Sad will be your future, sinner,
If to God you do not cry.

You are weak, unworthy creature,
Jesus died your soul to save.
He is striving now within you,
Hoping you will turn to Him;
He is knocking at your heart's door,
Open now and let Him in.
Jesus pleads with you so gently,
Come, poor sinner, give up sin.

Oh, believe His precious promise,
Come and trust His power to save.
He is waiting to receive you,
If your heart to Him you'll give:
From His side the blood is flowing,
It will purge away each stain.
Give to Jesus your all, poor sinner,
From your heart will banish pain.

He will pat His arms about you,
Shield you from temptation's snare.
And when life on earth is over,
A heavenly home you shall share;
But if you reject the Saviour,
Turn Him from your heart away,
Then an awful doom awaits you,
When it is too late to pay.

4. THE SALVATION PLAN.

CAPT. JAS. FORMAN.

TUNE—We have a grand Salvation plan.

Come share with us the Gospel feast,
It is prepared for you,
The Lord has bidden all mankind,
And not a chosen few.
The gambler from the den may come,
The drunkard from the slum,
The chiefest of the fallen race,
There's room for every one.

CHORUS.

Oh! we have a grand Salvation plan,
Old Satan can't destroy,
It feeds the soul, and body too,
And fills the heart with joy.

For broken hearts and wrecked homes,
It suits them, oh! so well,
It takes away our many sins,
And saves our souls from hell.
It fits us for a home above,
A place of immortal glory,
Where Christ, the King of Glory, dwells,
With saints all robed in white.

Oh, listen now, poor wretched soul,
The Saviour calls to thee.
For you my precious Blood I shed,
It flowed on Calvary.
To save your soul from sin and hell
I laid My body down,
That you at last in Heaven might dwell,
And wear a golden crown.

5. HOMEWARD BOUND.

BY SERGT.-MAJOR GRIFFITHS.

TUNE—It was for me.

There is a city bright and fair,
Often I wish that I were there;
But when I think of those in sin,
I want some precious souls to win.

CHORUS.

I'm homeward bound, yes homeward bound,
My feet are placed on solid ground;
The pearly gates I see, I see,
And Jesus waits to welcome me.

How sweet I will be when work is o'er,
And we have reached the golden shore;
To meet those souls we've helped to win,
Some trophies for our Saviour King.

Oh, weary one, think of that home,
Where toil and care and pain is o'er;
Though strewn with thorns the path may be,
Yet Jesus's hand upholds thee.

They've gained the port, oh blessed place,
They see their Saviour face to face!
They have fought the fight, the victory won,
They have received their Lord's "Well done."

We'll clasp our loved ones by the hand,
When we have reached that sunny land;
But sweeter far than all will be,
My precious, loving, Lord to see.

6. INVITATION SONG.

BY LIEUT. PETIT BARTON.

TUNE—Wait for the turn of the Tide.

Sinner, the Saviour is watching for you,
He's waiting to pardon you now;
For many a year He's knocked at your heart,
He's waiting to pardon you now.
Leave all your sins and our grace lay hold,
From all your troubles He'll surely set free.

Down at His feet you mercy will find,
Pardon and cleansing is waiting for Thee.

CHORUS.

Jesus is waiting to pardon you now,
Yes—this is the time to pardon you now!
If you'll only come and give up your all,
He's promised to pardon you now.

His blessed Word tells us He casteth none out,
He's waiting to pardon you now:
If you will repent and believe on His name
He's waiting to pardon you now.
Will you not give up your life of sin?
Come to my Saviour and new life He'll give.

Venture on Him, for He'll take you in,
And power He'll give you a right life to live.

7. LET JESUS REIGN.

BY LIZZIE LESLIE, PETERBORO'.

TUNE—I am list'ring.

Do you hear the Saviour calling,
Gently calling unto you?
"Come, and leave your sinful habits
At the Saviour's bleeding side."

CHORUS.

He is able, He is willing;
Now to cleanse your heart from sin.
If you will but let the Master
Reign and rule your heart within.

Long His mercy you've rejected,
And by sin been led away.
But He's waiting to receive you,
If you will His Word obey.

Will you give your heart to Jesus,
And be cleansed from every sin?
There is pardon for the sinners,
When they let the Saviour in.

TO INTENDING CANDIDATES.

Kindly note that all Applications for the Gazette should be addressed to Commissioner Rice, 204 Sherbourne St., Toronto, Ont., and should be prepaid to prevent delay cost of printing, postage, etc.

OFFICIAL GAZETTE

PROMOTIONS—

Lieut. Galt, of Montreal T.G., to be Capt.
Cadet Truman Wood, of Moncton Garrison, to be Lieut.
Cadet Arthur C. Percy, of Moncton Garrison, to be Lieut.
Cadet John Linton, of Moncton Garrison, to be Lieut.
Cadet Wm. J. Searle, of Temple Garrison, to be Lieut.
Cadet Mary Batten, of St. Johns Garrison, to be Lieut.
Cadet Bessie Grisham, of Toronto Rescue Home, to be Lieut.

APPOINTMENTS—

Capt. Galt to be Financial Special.
Lieut. Wood to North Head.
Lieut. Percy to Halifax II.
Lieut. Linton to Hamiltonetta.
Lieut. Searle to Whitby.
Lieut. Batten to Catalina.
Lieut. Grisham to London Rescue Home.

TRANSFER—

Lieut. John Anderson to U.S.A.

D. R. REID,
Commissioner.
Territorial Headquarters, Toronto.

WAR CRY
SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 19TH, 1899.

Mrs. Rees. In a few days, Mrs. Rees will be crossing the briny Atlantic to join her husband, Commissioner Rees, in his Canadian warfare. Many a Canadian officer, soldier, and friend pray that she may have journeying mercies, and that she may be kept in the love of God's hand while crossing the deep. We, in Toronto, will be glad to welcome the world in the bodice of His hand, and His everlasting arms around Her and all the children, also Mrs. Rees, and may they find in our midst a perfect safety. God grant it.

Past and Gone. Ere this issue is read by our comrades, the Bureau will be in connection with our Ninth Anniversary will be over. We are anxious to give those who were unable to attend these special demonstrations a good idea of what they are like, and shall therefore try to have good, illustrated, pithy reports of the same, which will appear in a future issue. In the time of going to press, we are full of faith that God will set His Defiance upon all that is said and done.

The Future. At this special time, such as we have established previously, stories and blessings. The past, however, is gone, and the future lies before us. What shall the future be? It is ours to see to this. We feel confident that it will be fraught with untold successes, particularly if each one lives out his or her salvation. Personal practical religion is the great want of the day. The world is full of theoretical talk and twaddle. Dying humanity cries out for practical help. The Salvation Army professes so much, consequently the world expects great things from us. Our light should so shine that men seeing our good works may glorify our Father which is in heaven.

In Glory. Capt. Eliza Fielder, a brave warrior, who has for several years been fighting a good warfare in various parts of the Dominion, has gone to heaven from the Home of Rest at Rothsay, N. B. The Captain fought, victorious she died. We cannot tell who next may fall. Comrades, be ready! We hope to give more news and a sketch of her life in a future Cry. This issue contains the portraits and lives of our dear glorified comrades, Captains Hunter and Moss, which will doubtless be read with great interest. May the God of all comfort console the bereaved ones. Death is no respecter of persons. We must face it. Let us seek to live, fight and work, so that we shall be ready when the Master comes with us to the Throne.

THE Progress of the General's Scheme.

Some of the Latest Particulars About England's Social Wing.

From the English Cry.

When the General's book put the whole world under conviction, and a considerable portion under conversion—when people were crying, as of old, "Men and brethren, what shall we do?" of course the General said, "Remember the collections!" Just then there were many who silenced their consciences and saved their money by means of the cross following questions:

"Can any good thing come out of the Salvation Army?" How can the General do all these things he proposes, seeing he has never learned?" These questions are substantially very old, as old as the story of Nicodemus, and people ought to understand and explain. Because it has always been the General's good fortune to have a man, who knows, possesses, money is power, but a commander may lose the both if he has not reliable men.

To my mind, speaking from the human side, the Social wing are the Social wing are his chief glory. The fact seems almost too marvellous for realization that nearly all our officers, from the Sergeant of the wood choppers right up to the Commissioner, have been more or less submerged by sin the mighty leveller down, and raised by Salvation, the mighty leveller up. Many who have been lately rescued and hold important offices, even these take a great interest in the general working of the concern, for they fully realize that the success of the whole will be the result of the individual effort of every part. So let us glory in the fact, our beloved Army by the grace of God has been able to exhibit to the world an ideal Christian Socialism.

The proposals of the Darkest England Brigade, according to the General's entries, were best with a few impossibilities, but the General had a man, Colonel Barker, who has put his hand to the plough, experienced into the business, and the Colonel was successful in finding an ex-warder from H. M. prisons, who thought he was a special official experience to bear on the concern. For humility's sake he wishes to be nameless, so I must content myself by saying should you ever go to the Firth of Forth, you will not have to search much further for his name.

When a warder he was saved, and on the stone floor of a prison cell he knelt and prayed with his first convert. At the exhortation of this convert's time, the chaplain was so convinced of the genuineness of his conversion that he gave a signal interest in the case, and ultimately the ex-reviser became a lay preacher. Since that time, the future Captain has led many to the feet of Jesus. Now he is pensioned off Her Majesty's serv ce, and for the rest of his life he gives Her Majesty's service, a kind of recruiting Sergeant for the Prison Home. He visits police court and prison as a jail bird of the Darkest Land. He acquaintance with prison officials and his practical knowledge of prison discipline are of immense advantage to us, as it helps to unlock the prison cell doors, which he has so long kept our officers from a work for which they are fitted, both by nature and grace.

A few days ago, while this officer was in the waiting room of a large prison, he got into conversation with a police inspector, who was waiting to re-arrest a man.

"Well," said the Captain, "I reckon I've got a better job than you."

"How do you make out?" said the inspector, for the Captain, per policy, was in plain clothes.

"I am the recruiting sergeant for the Salvation Army Discharged Prisoners' Home," replied the Captain, and then went on to give a detailed account of the work.

"A grand work," said the inspector. "I am an Auxiliary of the Salvation Army, and proud to say we have a brigade of well-saved policemen."

"What fine Prison Brigade officers they would make!"

"Well, I shall be delighted to do all in my power to help you. If I come across a deserving case, I will send a post card to your Headquarters."

We can safely say that if the Prison Gate Brigade keeps steadily progressing at its present rate, very soon there will be the same footing as other religious societies who follow this work, and our efforts will receive the recognition and help of Government in this country as well as at the Antipodes.

Whilst thinking about the lain submerged and the present elevated, I am reminded that Charley Colclough has been promoted to a Captaincy. He is one of the trophies of our Food and Shelter work, being saved at Limehouse Shelter soon after it was opened. He is now in his fourth spiritual year, and a fine boy for his age. He has the distinguished honor of being in charge of the cradle of the Salvation Army — glorious 272, Whitechapel Road—whose associations will survive in the adoring Hosts of time, and be conspicuous in the world's history when the building which sheltered the first corps of the Salvation Army lies mingled with the dust.

Not only does this place arouse heroic thoughts, but since it has come under the feathers of the Social Wing, it has evoked some startling facts as to the marvelous facilities which the Social Wing possesses for saving and elevating the submerged.

The manager, Capt. Colclough, about four years ago, was carrying sandwich-boards, as habitue of the Thames Embankment, separated from his wife and family, a hopeless outcast. Now he is the smiling and aristocratic-looking manager of Whitechapel Food and Shelter Depot.

Whitechapel is the metropolis of the East-End—the headquarters of submerged London. In this neighborhood we see just ce que le ceme of blackest London. As this aristocracy of misery presents itself before the hospitable counters of the depot, the Captain, thinking of his own past and present, and then looking at the miserable tatter before him, will unfold revelations of yent to the following lines, which are "Hervey's "Meditations among the Tombs" (about a thousand miles off):—

"Remember me as you pass by,
As you are now, so once was I;
As I am now, so you may be,
Get saved, old chap, and follow me."

We are happy to be able to say that the interest in England Lights is fast increasing. Our Match Factory is in full swing, and the goods produced are pronounced to be of first-class quality. We are sure that this will be accepted as a fact when we state that in addition to the Wholesale Co-operative Society supplying our depots with our matches, we have this week concluded arrangements with one of the oldest and most respected firms in the City of London for the sale of Darkest England Lights. Messrs. W. B. Fordham and Son (Limited), Yard Road, King's Cross, have the Brigadier ready to supply our matches not only to their own circle of customers, but will act as our agents in supplying the same to all inquirers.

"Gather up the fragments that nothing be lost," would be an excellent motto for a Brigadier in the battle cry for our great crusade against that offspring of the devil—Waste.

Mother Earth has taught her sons many lessons in economy. Her observers are always changing, but never wasting—the observing and re-appearing, the continuous and different forms but never lost.

The Gospel has been God Almighty's Spiritual Salvage Corps for 1800 generations. Nowadays, the Darkest England Scheme is the Social Salvage Brigade, a certain section of which deals with the extermination of waste material, or the extension of our Salvation work to things inanimate, so the object of the Salvage Brigade is to seek and save that which was lost, and by utilising some of London's refuse to save the souls of men from the eternal waste of hell.

Our Salvage Depot stands on a large piece of ground, its river frontage measures 300 feet, its depth of 270 feet, and when the necessary alterations are completed this will be our largest depot in London.

SAVED POLICE.

SOCIAL SALVAGE.

In all Social Wing properties there is, and was, a delicious time-s between the Brigade and the Police, which has just taken a building which has not been thoroughly submerged, and what is more remarkable these places have been cleaned and made suitable for their work by submerged labor.

The Salvage Depot forms no exception to this rule. The place had fallen among thieves, who have not been content with taking land, iron, and wood, but have left which thieves consider portable, but they have even taken the sashes and frames out of the building, and yet the Salvage Brigade removed the bricks if the Salvation Army had not taken possession of the premises. Some one must have played the role of the Good Samaritan.

The buildings, which had been used by some manufacturing company, were left in a ruinous condition. It will cost £200 to fit them up for the Salvage Brigade. All this work is to be done by submerged labor under the direction of Adjutant Bullow. The foreman of the works is one of Colonel Barker's spiritual sons, and a better specimen of mental and physical manhood—saved and elevated by the grace of our Lord—perhaps you may not find in Battersea.

ALTERATIONS.

HOW WE FIX THEM UP.

You have all been enraptured with the poetic description of Job's war-horse, and we hope you will be learn that we fighted to be learn that we have Social cavalry as well as infantry. In our City Colony there are twenty horses and two Jerusalem ponies, who have plenty of work to do for their food and shelter. Then we have an official amongst us—the Master of the Horse—who is satisfied with the responsibility of horses, and not only is he saddled with the responsibility of horses, but he has learned to bridle his tongue, and has no desire to ride the high horse.

An editor, who was not a lineal descendant of the boy who never told a lie, he referred that Booth's Beer only existed in the General's mind. We should like everyone to know that as well as being in his mind, it is also contained in the General's barrels and bottles, and it is made on the premises of historic Limehouse Shelter. The Captain in charge of this department will be glad to receive orders for immediate delivery, from a dozen bottles to a butt, and will send it to your mansion on our Salvation brewer's dray. There is one thing certain, that by purchasing our Elevator Beer, or Social Invigorator, as it is called, you will be helping to stop the flow of intoxicants and help us to save the drunkard.

Does anyone want a man for five minutes, five months, five years, or a lifetime? If you have any requirements come within this range, please do not forget the Labor Bureau at 25, Upper Thames Street, where men are waiting to be hired even until the eleventh hour, hoping and praying for a job by means of which they may be able to buy food and shelter for themselves and perhaps a starving wife and family.

During last week there were six hundred and forty-eight applications for work. There were one hundred women amongst this large number of applicants. If our numbers in the summer are so high, what will the winter be? But there is a bright side to the situation provided we can provide for these returns from the Labor Bureau. One-sixth of the work's applicants were found employment, which is a fine one percentage, when we take into consideration the awful condition of many of those who apply.

Taking a rough average, we can safely say that during the spring and summer months we have assisted about a hundred a week into work, and provided, or otherwise, through the agency of the Bureau.

Perhaps you may be curious to know how this important department, which supports itself. To confess—and I blush to confess—it is supported by voluntary contributions—that is to say, by those offerings from those who get work and freewill offerings from those who get employed, through the agency of our Bureau. I say of those who give a debt of gratitude in this direction, please do not forget that a little silver or golden appreciation is the most substantial sign of a boy. Whilst admiration of the work will not fail to touch the hearts of the Bureau officials, money will keep them and help to solidify a most important department.

The Labor Bureau has no opportunity of covering its expenses as a rule, therefore, since the General has made it every Salvationist's duty to pray for any department in particular, "now for the collection!"

At the same place we have a shoe-transformer, and a boot-and-shoe converting department, where old men's clothes are turned into old boys' garments. The tailor in charge of this section has been good enough to take part of a man by the inhuman sweater, and had lost the use of one eye through working twenty-seven long hours at a stretch at a sweater's den. He got saved at a Stumpost and was put on our Elevator, which took him in night-school and made him a new man in Christ Jesus. Any day you may see him at our old Headquarters, in Thames Street, seated on a board with his inoffensive cabbage and goose, putting old patches in old garments and fixing up all sorts of clothes for the Elevator men.

Gentle reader, may be how the privilege of operating on some of your old clothes?

Just opposite the Clothes Turning Department we have the Shoe Translators, who deal with all sorts of submerged shoe-leather. May they deal with yours? You see the importance of the three departments being under one roof. A poor fellow, with a very little expenditure, can be introduced to our elevated tailor, and then to our translator. After they have done all they can he is taken downstairs, a job of work found for him, and all this is done "while he waits."

I hope you will appreciate my new nom de plume. Some think A NEW NAME. that Scavenger is infra dignity, and since I am appointed by Commissioner to be Extra Special Outcast, in loving memory of that "Graphic" correspondent who came to our Shelter and could not sleep, who said he suffered the torments of Job, therefore, to more practically replace the poetic and practical rendering of a very ancient name.

ELIPHAZ, THE TEM-NANITE.

Vancouver's Valiant Victories.

A Successful Christian—Living Curiosities—Dignified Sexton—Three Babies Dedicated—New Tiger for the Battle—In Sodily Discomfort.

DEAR WAR CRY.—No doubt you would like to know how the war progresses up here. Well, Vancouver is going up, up, up! We've and Major Morris and Capt. Harry for a three days' big go and they made things lively.

On Saturday, Aug. 22nd, the fray commenced with a great welcome meeting. It was one of the Roaring, Ramping, Trumping Kind.

Ten recruits were enrolled under our blessed tri-colored flag. Capt. Arkett's singing and Cor. Morris' playing charmed all who heard it.

Sunday began with knee-drill, which God's presence was felt by all. The Holiness meeting, the talk ran on the subject of "What makes a successful Christian?" The officers who were present spoke of their past experience of God's dealings, and the way in which He had led them into greater places, into clearer light, and fuller power, and this which alone can make one a success in the Christian warfare, i.e., the Spirit of Christ, which enables them to live for others instead of for self. God was present, and we wound up our meeting with and one soul for Salvation.

Eight for Sanctification,

The afternoon free-and-easy went with a swing, "Everything was lively." One brother said: "Salvation keeps us; we don't have to put it in our pockets before we leave our meetings." Another lady didn't want any of that nonsense there, but now she finds that anyone, whether they be may shout as much as they please, beneath the flag of the yellow, red, and blue.

White, Brown, or "Green,"

The Major gave us a fine choice of Solomon, and drew in the net, but no one came to the Saviour.

Before the evening meeting, the Major held a council with the Sergeants, and also had a little talk with the soldiers, which was made a great blessing to them. In the public meeting the Major dedicated three babies to the Lord. The audience seemed very interested. Afterwards, three of the junior soldiers sang together very touchingly.

"Some of you have mothers,
But they're lying in the tomb."

One soul came to the Saviour that night.

On Monday afternoon the Major led a council with all the B. C. officers, from which we went forth with increased determination to be loyal to God and the Army. The meeting on Monday night was the crowning one of the week. It was manifestly present. It is wonderful how attractive the Cross is, and how people, in spite of themselves, will for hours sit in bodily discomfort, to listen to the same story of old. The result of the meeting was the Conversion of a Morphine Victim.

He had quite a hard time getting through, but the Lion of Judah, bless His name, broke all his chains. The glory got down into our brother's feet, and he executed a regular dance. It did our hearts good to see him.

God has wonderfully blessed us since the Major's coming amongst us, and we shall go into the fight with fresh vigor and earnestness. Adieu,

LIEUT. WESTACOTT.

The quantity of tobacco on which duty was paid in the United States last year was no less than 243,905,823 pounds. How much suffering in the slums of New York and other American cities the value of this would have alleviated, is not mentioned.

In the hands of General Booth it would have been a rope by which he would have quickly hanged starvation on the lowest branch of his social tree.

Ensign Logan in Ould Girland.

Some Account of His Recent Travels.

Letter No. II.

I took the London and North Western Railway from London to Stranraer, Scotland. It took us from 8 p.m., to 8 a.m., to accomplish this journey.

I was not out of the large, roomy, comfortable cars that I had been used to for the past five years, but a small compartment to seat about ten people, five on each side facing each other; but as we had to ride all night, they only let six in, all Salvationists, occupying room for 12. I slept a little, but just a little. At length, we arrived in Stranraer, and from there we took which is only two hours' sailing, the shortest sea passage between Ireland and Scotland.

The Steamer to Ould Girland,

I arrived in Larne about 9.30 a.m., and accompanied the officers of that town to the quarters, and had breakfast and dinner with them. They were just returning from the Crystal Palace Anniversary with the rest of us.

I then took the train to Ballymena, my native town. I won't say anything about this place, although being the place of my birth. I felt homesick(?) Yes, it may sound queer, homesick at home. But I cannot make myself at home where there is no Salvation Army. The Army once had a corps here, but, through unfaithfulness, the thing went down. Lord keep us true.

I spent a very enjoyable week at some of the Belfast corps. This city can boast of Seven Blood and Fire Corps.

The Irish Division has nearly doubled its number of corps since the time I left Ireland. I am pleased to say that some of the corps have more than doubled the number of soldiers. The corps where I spent the first of my soldiering days, (Belfast IV.) has more than doubled.

The war in Ireland is steadily going forward. The result of hard work and holy living is clearly visible. The first corps that I visited was the one I last named. Crowds gathered around us in the open-air. It was just like an opening. This corps has been opened about eleven years. The soldiers are full of fire. Before we left the open-air, we got a Collection of Eight Shillings, nearly 2d. I sang them some of our Canadian songs. They took immensely, especially "Ring dem bells," and "I'm happy, happy, happy all the time." My! didn't the soldiers pitch into the chorus. I accompanied these songs upon my auto-harp, an instrument unknown on this side the Atlantic. As soon as I ran my fingers across the wires, the crowds came around us. I sang:

"Glory, glory, Hallelujah, ..
Praise the Lord from day to day.

Things have changed completely round Since I got saved in the great S. A."

They never heard this song before, but they took to it, and it was hard to get them to stop singing it. They sang it over and over again, and over again. The tune is an Irish one, and of course they knew it.

Belfast II is a good corps. They have got into a new hall, and seem at their ease.

Some time ago, an officer left the S. A. and started a split. He succeeded for a time. Men started to build a hall. When the hall was almost finished, he gave up, his mission failed, and the S. A. gladly finished it and moved in.

"God moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform."

This was once a struggling little corps about five years ago, but now it is a good one, one of the best in Belfast. The officers have been getting full salary, and when they farewelled, they left a nice Balance for their Successors.

According to my promise, I spent a week-end at Larne. This is what they call a hard shop, but I enjoyed myself. The people here take a great delight in giving at our open-air meetings. I asked them to give us an even collection, but they spoiled it over and over again, and if I asked them for twopence half-penny, (5c.) to make up another shilling, someone was sure to give too much. Then, of course, we had another shilling to make up. The officers let the place well. The people are a good-hearted crowd.

Although the Army had left my home, I had the pleasure of presentation to a friend with my uniform, showing them that someone was standing true to the old flag.

I was surprised one day on receiving a telegram which read something like this, "Come London at once. Farewell at Congress Hall, a strange place to see. I lost no time in getting to London. When I was turning the corner that leads to the Congress Hall, I espied some posters on a board, with the words "Great farewell meeting. Officers farewelling for India. (and its small spot) and other lands." Because, thought I, "do they want me for India?" Anyhow, I made up my mind that I would go anywhere for God. You know I wanted, and I feel sure that God really wanted me. Because, I firmly believe, if God wanted me in India, that He would help me to stay there. I cannot think that God changes His mind in a matter like this, especially one in which great expense is involved. However, my mind was soon put at rest.

Colonel Pollard Called Me Aside, and the following dialogue took place between us:—

"Are you willing to go anywhere Ensign?"

"Yes, if I am sure God wants me Colonel."

"Well would you be hard to anywhere as to whether God wanted you or not?"

"I don't think I would Colonel. I have never been troublesome on that line."

"Well, we want you to go to Australia, so you will farewell to-night."

I won't try to describe my feelings when I heard this, but I had no hesitation in saying that I was quite willing to go. So, my dear comrades, as far as I know, Australia is to be my future battlefield under my old leader, Commissioner Coombs.

I am staying at the Congress Hall for a week or two before sailing. I am a Canadian WAR CRY from Brother Baker, late of the Canadian Headquarters, sometimes.

If the officers feel like it, I will say something about the war in London. Yours, Ensign LOGAN.

A VISIT TO NEWFOUNDLAND.

DEAR WAR CRY,—Since writing you last I have had many privileges to spend a few weeks with our dear comrades in St. Johns. Praise the Lord. I had some blessed times there. They are a proper lot of Salvationists—

Real Blood and Fire.

Truly, they shout and sing, and make the barracks ring with praises to God and King. I never saw the original Billy Bray—the King's son—but I do flatter myself that I have had the privilege of seeing a lot of Billy Brays in my own native land, Hallelujah! being a Newfoundlander myself, I feel quite at home, and believe in perfect freedom in the service of the Lord. Those whom the Son sets free are free indeed. The same spirit is in them. I could desire, and I gained much, experimentally.

Praise God. The Army has a grand hold in this country, and it was indeed a touchingly blessed light to see in the No. 1. barracks, soldiers—many of them rescued from the slavery of drink—pleading as with one voice for the Salvation of the lost.

The Well-Filled Platform

Several were converted in this barracks during my stay in St. Johns. The officers work hard, deal faithfully, for souls, the whole counsel of God, and results are visible.

I saw Major and Mrs. Scott and Adjutant Jewer only a few times, as they had to go away visiting the corps in other parts of the Island.

The Army store is very nice, and I was told quite a lot of uniform had already been sold, and also Army literature.

I saw Capt. Sheppard, the worthy Scribe, whose original remarks and quaint repartee are so well known and appreciated by WAR CRY readers. Also saw Adjt. Taylor, and the Cadets under his charge in the Training Garrison, soon to go forth equipped with the whole armour of God to win souls to Christ. Also Capt. Jennings, who although only there a short time, has a fine hold upon the people; and Uncle Bert and Brothers Eb-ary, Barter, Badcock, Hutchings, and a host of others too numerous to mention by name. And now, last, but not least, I must tell you all about No. II. barracks—would you believe it—built by the Reformed Methodists, but now fallen into the hands of the S. A.

A Veritable Church—

Dear Mother Hendricks and her Cadets, and my old comrade in the fight, Capt. Jost, look after these barracks. Only God knows the tried, faithful soldiers, who rally around them still on their knees, pleading for some souls struggling for liberty. They are intensely earnest. The Lord abundantly bless them with a great harvest of souls. Reserving the rest for another time,

MARY F. ELLIS.

Major Morris in British Columbia

A Happy Event - Getting OIC - A Sick Captain - Salvation in Sickness - His Favorite Song - A Other Dead.

Since my last report of our beautiful camp meeting at Portage la Prairie we have been advancing rapidly in some corps, and in others, steadily. The call came from Brandon, "Send us an officer." "Please open fire." One dear woman has been praying for us to come for three years. She claimed the place and were met by this woman. She had driven in twenty miles from the prairie.

She Burst into Tears

when she saw us; she was overcome at seeing the S.A. once more. We held a meeting. The people were very timid, but they crowded the building and we had a most beautiful time.

I am now finishing up a tour through British Columbia, and have visited the outriders at Spence's Bridge, examined their outfit, their horses, and arranged for them to buy another horse and for Capt. H. Morris to take a three weeks' tour with them, not feeling strong enough myself. I am not so young as I used to be by quite a few years, but, glory to God, I feel just like I did ten years ago.

Full of Salvation Go.

Capt. Arkett have been enabled to rest his horse and come to British Columbia for the officers' council.

Our visit to Calgary on Saturday and the following two days was good. Candidates were interviewed. Soldiers meetings were held.

Two Corners were Dedicated.

Soldiers and sinners sang, wept, and repented, some got saved, and a few sanctified. It was an "Oh, be joyful" time. Capt. Rennie and Lieut. Gooding are getting along well and going up, up, up.

At Victoria Capt. McIntyre and Lieut. Collier, the band boys, soldiers, and friends are stirred up to make things boom, while Father Gray, Mother Gray and family, fixed us up between meetings. A backslider came back and quite a few real zeal what they needed to make them successful, and got it. All glory to God. Candidates were interviewed, and the Rescue Home was not forgotten.

We said good-bye to our comrades and started for Nanaimo, Lieut. Kadey meeting us with some soldiers at the depot, saying, "Captain is just awaiting your coming. She is sick." We arranged her farewell, cheered her up, settled quite a lot of business, the Juniors' meeting was attended, two packed public meetings were held, and the brass band was in its place, which really surprised me in playing. They play and pray, which is the secret of real success.

Capt. Fraser and myself visited Sergt. Hall, who had been Injured in the Mine, some tons of stone falling upon him, nearly crushing the life out of him. We found him very much injured, with old hands to minister to his wants. The soldiers and friends do not forget him, and best of all he does not forget his God in anshaken. To those who say, "D.S.A. Commissioner's no answer back, "Yes," and when struck down by accident they stand, and even when dying they shout Hallelujah! I sang and played two or three songs, then asked him what tune he would like us to play. He said, "Play 'Some one died for me on the cross.'" We sang two verses and chorus. The next verse was, "Near the Cross a trembling soul." I asked him to pray. He said,

"I am Too Full,

I'll break down." He broke down. Capt. Fraser prayed, and we bade him good-by, cheering him up. We ask all your prayers for his restoration.

The colliers in Nanaimo are a big-hearted lot of men. No officer need be afraid of receiving orders for that corps. We expect to be able to present to the Commissioner a clear deed of a lot for a barracks costing $1,000, all paid for inside the corps by working men. God bless them.

THEIR ENTRY INTO HAMILTON.

Brigadier and Mrs. Philpott's Welcome. A New Thing—The Bolts Pulled — The Better Part—In Corktown—Old Times Again.

BY JOE.

On Tuesday night, Brigadier and Mrs. Philpott met nearly all the soldiers in Cornwall and gave them a real parental talk. Mrs. Philpott promising to visit the sister-soldiers of the city as much as possible, which is to them a new thing under the sun, but, needless to say, sweet in the right direction, and gladly received by the sisters.

This meeting was a real impetus to the welcome meetings on Saturday and Sunday, for they just seemed to jump right into our hearts of all—as one of us at first sight. Consequently, the soldiers looked forward to high times. At the close of the meetings some of the lady seemed satisfied that the Staff is God-sent.

On Saturday evening the usual open-air—rather at the usual time and place—and a more than usual crowd. But, oh, Hamilton! that was —that open-air collection, I mean. However, you held your laurels in that line on Sunday afternoon at the City Hall. I scarcely know what to say about those Sunday meetings.

A Stain on Your Reputation

"Praise meeting till night."

We were filled with delight," not because the Brigadier and his wife were there, but because we felt that God has control of the hearts of our leaders which, of course, is so very essential.

The Brigadier and Adjt. Mitchell were in barracks all. Our leader I felt the soldiers that it was not necessary that we should open the windows of Heaven to shower blessings upon us, for on the holiness on our side, and we must pull them ourselves.

In the Holiness meeting after a much and a short open-air in Corktown, such profitable advice was given in a short talk and so it is good enough for all readers of the CRY, here is the pith of it. The text was taken from John xx.

Mary came to sepulchre before daylight. She believed her Lord would rise, for He said so. The others went back to their previous occupations, for Jesus was dead, but Mary's faith failed not.

Peter and John saw that the Lord had risen, then went away. (before the close of the meeting).

But Mary tarried, saw the angels and talked with them.

She waited longer still (in prayer meeting) and saw the Lord and talked with him.

Some people stay till they see the angels, (feel good in the first meeting), but do not tarry. They that tarry see the Lord and talk with Him. Tarry.

The disciples (except Thomas) met again for meeting with doors closed down fear of the Jews. Jesus appeared in the midst. No door could keep Him out when people are in a holy meeting.

They met Thomas and told him, but he would not believe till he saw Him. So Jesus appeared again to him (and others) and said, "Thrust thy hand into My side." "He not faithless, but believing," etc.

Some shouted, others cried. All drank of the spirit of the holy meeting.

The afternoon meeting and open-air were unusually interesting, full of life and spirit. The Brigadier told them that to have the old times back they must bring them back themselves, and I believe, with the five verses of the tenth chapter of St. Luke, simply saying to the people, "I want you to follow Mary's example and choose the better part."

The crowd remained very interested till the close, and one soul ventured his all with Jesus.

With such leaders, we have confidence in God that the Hamilton Division shall boom.

EASTERN PROGRESS.

An Account of Some New Barracks Recently Erected in the East.

BY ERIC. JACOBS.

"No standing still, no retreat, but forward." should be our war cry. The war in the East is not all discouragement by any means. Since last Dominion Anniversary the battle has been raging in the soul-saving line as fast as ever. One of the centre sheds has marched 1200 and 1300 is the erection of a number of new barracks. Ensign Rogers came down from Toronto, and in September, 1890, the first barracks built under his superintendence was Carleton, St. John. Then a number of years the comrades, through difficulties, had fought on in a barracks that did not answer the purpose. Now, with a bad factor in the worst block of buildings, and possibly another meeting being held in an adjoining hall, it was a wonder that they got on as well as they did. Now they have

A Nice Comfortable Barracks,

as officers' quarters, and a small hall attached. Since the opening the corps has made progress, with more soldiers and larger crowds.

* * *

The barracks at Newcastle was not built by Ensign Rogers. Nevertheless it has the honor of being amongst those built during the year. Our Newcastle comrades made out on the opening day, and were continually turned out. The barracks has a store foundation built on the same pattern as that at Carleton, Ensign Rogers front, large hall, small hall and officers' quarters. A very marked change has come over the corps since the opening of the barracks. More people attend. Soldiers have increased considerably. There is every prospect of a continued soul-saving work.

* * *

Fears were entertained concerning the barrack at Charlottetown, P. E. I. Bad prophets prophesied that the barracks would never pay. They said the Ensign and Captain was all right, but they did not know who would be the future one, etc. Through much prayer, and hard work, the barracks was opened in January, 1891. The building is on the same principle as the others, only that it is much larger, so as to be sufficient to hold the large crowds that wish to attend the Army in Charlottetown. The barracks is situated on St. George street. The whole property is worth $3,300. The corner stone was laid by the Hon. David Laird. It is a credit to the city, improves the street on which it is, and will be a valuable building for carrying on soul-saving work. Our hearty secretary and soldiers worked hard to get subscriptions. Still there is a large debt on the barracks.

* * *

The year 1891 will be a memorable one at Spring Hill Mines on account of the military disaster. The sad news that the barracks was built in will be remembered by the disaster. Our hallelujah builders dropped work for a few days and went to comfort the bereaved and assist in burying the dead. It is concerning the barracks I am writing, therefore I will confine myself to it. One of the most prominent buildings in Spring Hill Mines is the barracks. As it is in the centre of the town on a corner lot, our comrades and friends will appreciate it. It is an ornament to the place. It is not a big hall for competition, it is as nice a piece of workship as any one would wish to worship in. It is a comfortable barracks for living with the crowds who wish to come to the S. A. It was opened and dedicated to God in May.

* * *

Campbellton is the most northern corps in the Mission Division. A lot of land was secured last year and two and a half months efforts were made to enable us to make a start. Disappointment seemed to meet us at every turn. Brother Rogers worked at last seemed bound to win. As the first lot was on a side street, a second one was bought, so as to have a corner, according to the original plan. Ensign Rogers, with his Hallelujah workers, arrived in Campbellton in May, and the first barracks in the town was opened. Some remarkable feature in Campbellton was, notwithstanding the disappointment in not being able to commence the barracks before, the work went on, and quite a number of souls got saved.

* * *

I am not yet in a position to say that the new barracks at Summerside is opened. I am pleased to be able to say our comrades, Bro. Hinton, has given us a lot of land, and a building, which is moved on the lot, and as the present time Ensign Rogers and his aides are busy at Summerside. Captain Allan is also very busy collecting, and to all appearance Summerside corps will be able to boast of a new barracks before the snow flies.

* * *

St. John I.—"Yes, that is just what I want to hear about," says some one. If slow and sure win the race, it will be won all right. For a number of years a lot could not be obtained. Since last anniversary, we have had handed to us the deed of a lot of land on Princess Street, 100 x 60. "Why is not the barracks started?" Is very fair question. To this question we reply,—For the same reason as some others were delayed—for want of a loan." Many efforts have been made to obtain one. Up to the present it has been a failure. Any one having a few thousand dollars to lend, we shall be glad to hear from you.

* * *

The soldiers at Sussex have been without a barracks for a long time, then in a barracks for a month or two, then a wire announces the fact that it is barred down. The corps was again on the street without a barracks. The faithful few plodded on, and in October, 1890, their faith received by a beautiful new barracks. When you are leaving Sussex station, going towards Quebec, look out to the right of the track, and you will see one of the prettiest little barracks there is in the Dominion. Other small corps stationed there, figures that the work is getting on well. Praise God.

* * *

Although the barracks at St. John III. was not opened during the year, a word or two may not be out of place. It was opened in May, 1890, situated on Brussels Street. One old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Milne, gave us a lot, and old friend Mr. Milne helped to build. The work this summer has been the best since the opening. Byers and Jeffersons are stationed there, and God has blessed their labours in a wonderful manner.

* * *

The average prayer of the churches amounts to this—"Give us the Holy Ghost, but not too much, lest the people should say we are full of new wine." Excessive preparness has killed many a church.—Divine Life.

SPIRITUAL MEDIUMS.

BY CAPT. JIM WATSON.

Spiritualism counts its followers by hundreds of thousands, its mediums, they whom spiritual influences and spiritual communications are supposed to pass from one to another, by hundreds of thousands. Spiritualism rings no bells in lofty towers,

Beats no Drums on Streets, has no outward processions or demonstrations, no preachers to advance its cause and lend its superiority. Whence then its success? Because it claims to have intercourse with the invisible world and with departed spirits, that is, mediums speak and are spoken to and influenced by spirits unseen. Here then is its success, its supernatural power.

Whatever may be its pretended claims to religion, I have never yet heard of or seen one man or woman whose life has been changed from bad to good, from drunkenness to sobriety,

From Vice to Virtue, from misery to happiness, by it or through it, and surely any system of religion which does not save and deliver its adherents from sin, is a fraud and a farce. For it had not ascended to Heaven and sent down this power and influence to His people, as He did on the day of Pentecost and as He does to all His faithful, real, believing people to-day. Paul said to the Romans, he longed to see them, that he might

Impart Some Spiritual Gift

to them or that he might be the medium through which God could give them some spiritual power and influence.

"Did you get anybody saved to-night?" I once asked of a preacher who had been preaching in the country. "No, but I told them how they might get saved." This preacher's answer to my question includes what I the same man's idea of multitudes of preachers and workers for Christ, nay, even of many officers of the S. A. But perhaps he did not know "the more excellent way?" Do we? To tell poor sinners the way to get saved, is this all our work? Are we merely messengers? Are we? Are we only ministers of the letter of the Word which killeth? If we in front of our eyes, helpless, would our telling him how to get out be the right thing to do, and then to pass on and leave him to perish? Or, if a woman is screaming madly at the window of a burning house, help, we can power her out by telling her of a certain flight of steps in the house, where she may get down—would that be pulling them out of the fire? Stop with fear? Seeking and saving the lost? No, no! Our throbbing lower answers, "No!" We must save them. We must go to the rescue. We are not merely messengers, advisers, religious counsellors, but our duty to the drowning man and burning woman is to put ourselves within their reach whereby they may save themselves.

Saw a Man Drowning

It is an acknowledged fact that men will not be saved but by the help of some power outside of themselves. Something to them in itself is insufficient and powerless to help them, for in itself it is no more than telling the drowning man how to get out, and if we be no more nor lower than the Word we shall do no more good than a tract of a text or the Bible in itself. But God wants to make use of us, and all His own children, but especially those who are fully given up to His service—mediums,

Spiritual Mediums, Channels

through whom He can work. What astonished the people who listened to Christ's preaching was this, as it was a new doctrine, but "His word was with power for there was a divine power accompanied His word. He spake as one having authority and not as the Scribes," who were argumentative and afraid of preaching the truth for fear of offending. The disciples, after Pentecost, preached the Gospel with the Holy Ghost sent down from Heaven. The same power was with them in preaching as was with Jesus their Master. This was the secret of their success. They were in direct communication with God and were receiving continually the power of His Spirit which flowed out from them to their words and actions, enabling them to overcome all the rage and wicked men, carrying them along to suffer and labor for the extension of Christ's kingdom on earth. This same power is ours.

And Opposition of Hell

But how may we become mediums for God and souls? Spiritualists say in order for a medium to be a medium with a pure spirit the medium must of necessity be pure. Truly is the greatest error there is some truth in it. We must be pure to have affinity with good pure spirits without personal purity surely it is impossible for us to have fellowship with God and power with Him without personal heart purity, purity of motive, purity of desire, of intention, of conversation, of action, of affection.

There must be the total abandonment of ourselves to God and the Holy Spirit, a definite understanding between the soul and God that we shall obey all and every leading or promptings of His spirit, no matter what cross or self-denial it may cost us, and an entire dependence on the Holy Spirit for every thought and the mouth of utterance, that it may speak as the Spirit giveth us utterance, which will not be according to the wisdom of man, not in excellency of speech, nor with human persuasion, but in the power of His Spirit.

Go out and practically do it—do it. While I personally feel conscious of my own weakness, yet I have done what I here write, and I know there are many comrades will do, and am daily proving that I am a medium of blessing to others. God bless us all.

What Will you do With it?

Holiness is in the Bible.
Holiness is the command of God.
Holiness is provided in the atonement.
Holiness is the highest requisite to usefulness and happiness.
Holiness is essential to heaven.
What will you do with it?

"War Cry" & "Young Soldier"

COMPETITION LIST,

FOR ISSUE OF SEPT. 12th, 1891.

DIVISIONAL CHAMPIONS.

Winnipeg (Man.) Capt. Aikenhead...	800
Victoria (B.C.) Capt. McIntyre ...	750
Montreal 1 (Montreal) Capt. Watson	662
St. John 1 (St. John) Capt. Andrews...	550
Toronto II (Toronto) Capt. Coombs ...	475
Hamilton 1 (Hamilton) Capt. Pike...	455
Fredericton (Fredericton) Capt. Holman...	400
Halifax 1 (Halifax) Capt. Bett...	400
London 1 (London) Capt. Scarr...	350
Belleville (Kingston) Capt. Golden ...	350
St. John's II (N.F.) Hendricks...	250
Chatham (Chatham) Capt. Gibbs ...	240
Ottawa (Ottawa) Capt. Wellwood...	230
Barrie (Barrie) Capt. Miller...	210

TORONTO DIVISION.

BRIG. MAJOR TAYLOR in command.

Toronto II	Capt. Coombs...	475
Toronto V	Frazer	435
Toronto VI	Clark	410
Toronto I	Dixon	335
Toronto IV	Cooke	240
Toronto III	Moss	210
Bowmanville	S.-C. Banks	210
Oshawa	Capt. White	200
Toronto VIII	Dowell	180
Toronto VII	Murray	180
Lindsay	Butler	150
Toronto VII	Broadbelt	140
Toronto IX	Lieut. Landers	125
Toronto XII	Capt. Warder	120
Markham	Smith	100
Whitby	Jones	100
Uxbridge	Barker	75
Brampton	Jones	80
Pontelon Falls	Woods	5
			3880

HAMILTON DIVISION.

BRIG. PHILPOTT in command.

Hamilton I	Capt. Pike	455
Guelph	Turner	350
Galt	Ashton	300
Woodstock	Savage	330
Brantford	Baker	200
St. Catharines	Mabee	150
Paris	Cargill	135
Dundas	Holt	115
Oakville	Stubbs	110
Simcoe	Dean	105
Hamilton II	Freer	105
Ayr	White	105
Niagara Falls	Sullivan	100
Welland	Wale	100
Norwich	Harrison	100
Acton	Davies	75
			2755

LONDON DIVISION.

BRIG. SPOONER in command.

London I	Capt. Scarr	350
Ingersoll	Sutton	250
Stratford	Pepper	185
Coderich	McAmmond	170
London II	Fisher	150
Seaforth	Markle	140
Berlin	Hewitt	140
Petrolia	Cowan	135
Listowel	Elliott	130
Palmerston	Richards	125
Tilsonburg	Messecar	115
Strathroy	Mulder	110
Forest	Wiggins	100
Wingham	Barber	90
Mitchell	Hay	90
Clinton	Ewart	90
Wiarton	Fagan	85
*Brussels	Freeman	80
Parkhill	Parker	75
St. Marys	Francis	75
			2710

BRITISH COLUMBIA DIVISION.

STAFF-CAPTAIN GRAYSON in command.

Victoria	Capt. McIntyre	750
Vancouver	Frith	550
New Westminster	Coulson	500
Nanaimo	Frazer	500
Calgary	Rennie	310
			2610

MONCTON DIVISION.

MAJOR BAUGH in command.

Fredericton	Capt. Holman	400
Charlottown	" H. McLean	200
Moncton	" Hodges	200
Woodstock	" Wasson	180
St. John	" E. Allen	175
St. Stephen	" Fox	160
Spring Hill Mines	" McLean	155
Pictou	" Knight	150
Amherst	" Larder	150
Newcastle	" Leavitt	155
Summerside, P.E.I	" Allen	115
Parrsboro'	" Langille	110
Campbellton	" Nickerson	100
St. George	" McLean	90
Hillsboro	" Bissett	75
			2435

HALIFAX DIVISION.

STAFF-CAPT. SWEETMAN in command.

Halifax I	Capt. Bett	400
Windsor	Desbrisay	210
New Glasgow	Capt. Kimble	275
Halifax II	" Allan	200
Liverpool	" Hynds	185
Halifax III	" Clifford	150
North Sydney	" Alward	150
Dartmouth	" Gardiner	140
Acadia Mines	" Petrie	120
Westville	" Wright	115
Truro	" Boggs	110
Lunenburg	" C. McLean	90
Stellarton	" Rafuse	80
Cow Bay	" LeDrew	80
Sydney	" Davis	75
			2115

MANITOBA DIVISION.

MAJOR MORRIS in command.

Winnipeg	Capt. Aikenhead	800
Brandon	" Lowry	500
Portage la Prairie	" Hills	200
Neepawa	" Jackson	150
Selkirk	" Orme	150
Carberry	" Edmonds	130
Emerson	" McGill	125
Morden	" Gordon	125
			2080

MONTREAL DIVISION.

STAFF-CAPT. MARSHALL in command.

Montreal I	Capt. Watson	635
Quebec II	McGinnes	250
Sherbrooke	" Dyke	200
Montreal II	" Myles	175
Bedford	" Mekou	115
Aylmer	" Osmond	115
Chesterville	" Tovill	110
Cantiocoke	" Goodwin	110
Lachine	" Brady	100
W. Winchester	" Harding	100
Waterloo	" Crowe	85
Cowansville	" Batten	75
Richmond	" McKeon	75
Knowlton	" McClenaghan	75
			2050

CHATHAM DIVISION.

STAFF-CAPT. BEATTY in command.

Chatham	Capt. Gibbs	340
Windsor	" Smith	200
St. Thomas	" Cardiner	200
Ingersoll	" Crooks	150
Sarnia	" Greatrex	140
Essex Centre	" Hunsed	120
Wallaceburg	" Gullyer	100
Dresden	" Halpenny	100
Kingsville	" Wells	95
Leamington	" Sargent	90
Amherstburg	" McIntyre	90
Blenheim	" McKague	85
Wheatley	" Hunt	85
Bothwell	" Snider	80
Comber	" Staiger	80
Watford	" Branigan	75
Thamesville	" Howe	75
Tilbury Centre	" Junkin	75
			2200

ST. JOHN, N. B., DIVISION.

ADJT. HOWELL in command.

St. John I	Capt. Andrews	550
St. John V	" Ens. Matthews	325
Tarmouth	Capt. H. Crompton	225
St. John III	" Boyes	140
St. John II	" McNamara	130
Digby	" McDonald	130
Carleton	" Larder	120
Bridgetown	" Tuttle	115
Fairville	" Allan	110
Bear River	" Reed	110
Annapolis	" Gushue	100
			2055

KINGSTON DIVISION.

STAFF-CAPT. SOUTHALL in command.

Kingston	Capt. Golden	350
Port Hope	Capt. McKenzie	250
Peterboro	Ensign Steele	200
Belleville	Capt. Barber	140
Trenton	" Best	100
Colborne	" Weir	95
Deseronto	" Cameron	95
Napanee	" Kett	90
Cannington	" Cass	90
Millbrook	" Stockton	85
Madoc	" Crane	85
Picton	" Forman	85
Norwood	" Handicott	85
Bloomfield	" White	80
Campbellford	" Cardiff	75
Tweed	" Patton	75
			1985

OTTAWA DIVISION.

MAJOR CALHOUN in command.

Ottawa	Capt. Wellwood	330
Cornwall	" Payne	245
Gananoque	" Brady	215
Perth	" Woolley	160
Brockville	" Ludgate	145
Cobourg	" Ash	140
Morrisburg	" Gale	130
Kemonville	" Todd	115
Carleton Place	" McKinnon	110
Heachburg	" Parker	105
Prescott	" Evans	100
Renfrew	" Martin	75
			1830

BARRIE DIVISION.

STAFF-CAPT. BENNETT in command.

Barrie	Capt. Miller	210
Owen Sound	" Milner	195
Orillia	" Ayre	175
Parry Sound	" Williams	150
Collingwood	" Richardson	110
Bracebridge	" Boyd	100
Midland	" Bich	95
Newmarket	" Gage	95
Orangeville	" King	85
Gravenhurst	" Ellery	80
Huntsville	" Bozall	80
Stayner	" Johnson	80
Bracebridge	" Hillside	75
Shelburne	" Dyker	75
Tottenham	" Isaac	75
Sutton	" Cockerill	75
			1655

"Excelsior" Meets "Pluck" with a Congratulatory Welcome.

"Good morning, Major Baugh."

"God bless you, Staff-Captain Grayson."

MAJOR—"I thought you were in the Old Country, and did not expect to meet you in the observatory this morning."

S.-C.—"Yes, indeed, but though away I did not forget the 'Cry-War' or my brave troopers, and of course the first opportunity to see how they were doing was seized, and I am proud of the result. May I ask how you have succeeded this week?"

MAJOR—"Yes, I am pleased to show you a record of 300 above last week. But we were too struck to indeed. We had a special job on hand and I consider my aides did bravely. How did you do?"

S.-C.—"Well, hoping I might be ahead and yet feeling I might not, I was too slow to show my figure, but 300 is my figure and I am in for passing you next time."

MAJOR—"I see some of our rivals have reached good figures and there are a few thermometers missing. I suppose they ordered no special 'Crys.'"

S.-C.—"So I understand. I no rather surprised at Toronto, Hamilton, and one or two more not appearing. Good bye. God bless you."

MAJOR—"Good bye."

OUR ANNIVERSARY "CRY!"

EXTRA-ORDINARY COMPETITION!

Moncton Division

mounts the pinnacle with a leap of time unmatched and ten, for which the following corps may deserve special mention:

Station	Pts	Station	Pts
Charlottetown	200	Fredericton	400
Moncton	30	Woodstock	180
St. Stephen	160	Springhill	155
Amherst	150	Chatham	240
Newcastle	155	Sussex	30
Campbellton	100	Sackville	10
Summerside	115	St. George	90
and Hillsboro' over	75	Grand Falls	GOOD!

British Columbia

comes well up to the mark. O, if Staff-Capt. Grayson had only known just what the Moncton Marvels were doing, she would surely have ordered a fine, long following corps came nobly to her assistance however:—

Victoria	750	Vancouver	550
New Westminster	500	Calgary	310

A CREDITABLE QUARTETTE! EH?

Taking the efforts of single corps into consideration, there is only one other that will bear comparison with B.C's two leaders, and that one is BRANDON—beating Brandon!

Halifax Division

made a grand sport, and it's a good thing for them that Ont. or Manitoba would have got ahead of them. Here is the league of their work:—

Halifax I	50	New Glasgow	275
Windsor	210	Liverpool	185
Halifax II	200	Halifax III	150 and lower North Sydney

Halifax III. Lieut. Wesville, Cow Bay, and Truro added 10 each to the List, thus doing them eleven a favor and making a creditable record. God bless them!

Manitoba Comes Next.

As you see by the thermometer, they register the same increase as Halifax, but they have 50 more to gain before their total will equal H. Division. It will be interesting to see how they stand next week, for Brandon, Portage and "other sids" will fall off, yet I trust not all.

Major Morris' mark-men scored the following number of points:—

Brandon	100	Emerson	25
Neepawa	25	Selkirk	25
Portage la Prairie	100	Stone Fort	25

That's not a bad increase, I'm sure. I only wish I could report it permanent—but alas! alas! I may. I will not scorn as those without hope.

"Watch and wait" is my motto.

Another forward step in the rising sun and our eyes fall on St. Jons, N.B. That interesting division is to be commended for the position they have taken in this survey. A rise of 220 is worthy of "honorable mention," even if it does not take the "Gold Medal," and we'll give them another chance to a few months' time. Keep believing!

Attention! Red.

St. John V	30	Ensign Steele
St. John I	30	Capt. Andrews
Yarmouth	30	Capt. Crompton
St. John III	30	Ex-Boyes
Carleton	30	Ex-Boyes
St. John II	30	Capt. Boyes
Annapolis	100	Ex-Boyes
Bridgetown	10	Ex-Fair
Digby	30	Ex-Boyes

What think you of that? Fine! Who says Digby has not done as well as Big St. John V., "comparatively?" Digby, Digby, see you will yet develop prodigiously no doubt.

Since writing the above notes, we have been informed that

Toronto I	335	Capt. Dixon
Bauptville	5	" Hynds
Bloomfield	80	" White
Woodstock, N.B.	5	" Hynds and Millbrook,	75	" Cameron additional "special" Crys.

Good news is always welcome!

I have also an intimation that certain western stations are raising their order permanently to a hundred, and a miracle the world when revealed (so to speak). Watch next week's List and Notes, and see what can be done to beat their record.

A cold BATH has made

Kingston Division Turn Pale,

as it were, and dropped it under St. John. Of course St. John cannot crow much over that. However, I do not despair of Kingston regaining its lost position, and yet as I am sort of a "level-bubble" myself, I rather lean toward the side that goes up, and therefore hope to see St. John retain its exalted position.

Just look at Newfoundland Again.

Several new stations have come into the List, and the total has risen to

TWELVE HUNDRED, and still there's more to follow. QUIZ.

CHEERY CHIT-CHAT

—FROM—

Sundry Scattered Stations.

Sunbury comrades are rejoicing over two precious souls finding peace and pardon. Soldiers and converts are all doing well. May their numbers daily increase. The Cross is the attraction, and living beneath its shade you may find Capt. TENNY and Lieut. BOYLER.

Picton officers are still pegging away at the forts of darkness. There are evidences of weakness in certain parts of the wall, and they are believing to get a few bricks out of it soon, and march through with the standard of King Emmanuel and claim possession.

WHAT'S THIS?

"Missionary Johnnie," the "Greene Family," hailed the Smiths' Creek, and a certain well-known Capt. B., were present at the Dundas and Paisnell at Kingston recently. Also was held on the following Monday night, at which the largest audience for months was in attendance, and all were delighted, and visited the musical comrades to return at their earliest convenience.

A MUSICAL BLIZZARD

THE BLIND RECEIVE SIGHT.

Cornwall.—"Light is sown for the righteous, and gladness for the upright in heart." Since the change have been exhibits God's Spirit has taken hold, for four souls have fallen before His presence and power. In tears of confession pouring out their heart's bitterness at the feet of Jesus, they found that what the failed to do, in washing away the guilt and misery, the Blood of Jesus did. It remains for them now to prove the alteration by adhering to the salvation, and not live in silence, but shout out the good news for the benefit of others. Three conscientiously received light in the Holiness meeting, and volunteered for cleansing, professing liberation from the "opinions of others." A poor fellow the other night, although seemingly under the influence of liquor, had sense enough to know that the SA. were his friends, knelt at the penitent form at the beginning of the meeting, going through with his hands and head some very peculiar antics, thumping his breast and crying to the Virgin Mary. Needless to say we pitied him and did our best to help him. Through visiting, an old lady, over was led into the light. She is also blind and was unable to go to meeting, but think God, the S.A. found her out and CONFIRMED THE SALVATION TO HER.

SOPT SOAP BUSINESS

EIGHTY YEARS OLD

She feels very grateful to the Salvation Army. With tears of joy she told me, "I never saw it after that fashion before."—Capt. PAYNE.

FROM SOMEWHERE.

DEAR EDITOR,—Again this week we can report victory. One young man who has been seeking for a clean heart for over a year found it in the Holiness Meeting Sunday morning. Also one lady who is living will bring us present victory. Then at night we told the people to all stop to the prayer meeting, and to bring them that it was the best part of the meeting. So it proved. Although it was late in closing, yet we could rejoice that one soul got saved.—Capt. TEE WILLIAMS.

Le Petit Garcon cot gone to Omonee, Ontario, and wife. Our place when had

WESTERN ONTARIO

THUNDER AND LIGHTNING.

Capt. Greatrex and wife, of Sarnia, have on the shield that keeps them safe from the fiery darts of the enemy, and God enables them to live blameless and spotless. The Holy Ghost is at work amongst the people, and the Sword of the Spirit is doing proper execution. One soul is reported saved and two sanctified, since last report.

A laconic despatch from Capt. Elliott, Listowel, says: "Jesus is being uplifted and souls are being drawn unto Him. (Exemplary.)

Fort Elgin braves, under their Knox-onian leader, are winning. "The Lord is with us, and since last report two have sought and found His pardoning love and mercy. Wanted 1 More rest holy living, and earnest, determined opposition to sin.

Berlin's latest bulletin: "Victory—victory—power—fire—fire upon—war—all over town yesterday—four in-door meetings—two souls, husband and wife, at the Cross. All glory to God.—HEWITT."

Lucan, Crediton, Watford, reports: "Sunday morning a backslider, getting along well. Friday night another, prayed and wrestled up to his colours, got the victory, of course. Cheer up, look out—Smash!

London I. Seven souls in ten days.—Dear Wm. Booth.—We are glad to be able once more to report victory through your pages. After saying farewell to our dear comrades we marched with sad hearts to love so much, we soon found our way to London, where we found some proper soldiers and friends, who seemed to do us feel quite at home. Last night (Sunday) a dear man, under the influence of drink, came and kneel in the market, emptying his pockets of pipe and bottle, which were soon destroyed by some of the warriors, then away to the barracks, where he gave himself up to God, and began to pray, with three others who were crying to God for pardon. Soon we were able to verify that Jesus saved them, making seven souls won for Jesus during the last ten days. To Him we give all the glory, and pray for more.—Capt. SCARR.

At Feversham a brother has recently started for the New Jerusalem. The soldiers are determined to make a mark for God by their lives, wherever they go. Amen.

The Paris Praisers are still fighting on, and holding their own against the devil. The visible results are not all they could desire, but there is satisfaction in knowing that the soldiers and officers are well saved.

Good meetings are being held at Mitchell and the soldiers are getting more of the war spirit. The converts are coming on grand, and crowds on Sunday good. So says Lieut. Wilcox.

Capt. Pearson has had a good reception at Wingham. The first Sunday's fight lasted from 7 a. m. to 11 p. m., and finished with five souls in the fountain. God is working mightily here, and we trust the Captain may have bodily strength to follow up the work till hundreds shall be brought to Christ.

Port Perry report comes in written on birch-bark, bringing good news of blessing and victory. The Captain has a good impression of the place to begin with, and one soul saved, one sanctified, and two wishing to be prayed for.

David McAmmond, C.S.A., has gone from The Hive to Cinderella. A brother from Buffalo helped them very acceptably on a recent Sunday, and Bro. Buchanan lived some straight days, and at the close two prodigals came home. The Russian Lieut. is his aide.

One capture is reported from Markham. There are some good warriors in the ranks here.

Captain Neely and Lieut. Shelly have arrived at Aurora. Capt. E. Andrews, Dr. Logan and daughter have paid them an acceptable visit, and a grand time was experienced. One soul received the blessing of a clean heart. Praise God.

Capt. Hewitt heads a band of devoted soldiers at Berlin. "With the simplicity of children and the principle of men, we shall conquer; is the sentiment he expresses. I believe it.

The Strathroy snare-drummer beats a rat-a-tat-tat of joy over the return of a dear backslider, to dance a blessed Sunday's fight. Both band and "ordinaries" are gaining ground. Sinners are trembling, and faith claims them for the King of Kings.

Capt. M. Cowan, of Petrolia, says: "We are able to report blessed times all along, especially in our operations. God comes very near and the people listen with the best of attention. One dear brother, who sat in our meeting almost spell-bound on Sunday night, went home and prayed all night, and on Monday the light broke into his soul; and when testifying on Monday night, he said if the Lord spared him, he was going to pray and praise the Lord all that night, he was so happy. God is wonderfully working in our midst, and I firmly believe many will soon have to yield Him up their all. Capt. A. Cowan, of the London Rescue Home, recently paid us a visit. It was an occasion of great spiritual blessing, and stern facts were laid before the people, which greatly moved our hearts in sympathy with the great and noble work she is engaged in. May God abundantly bless her. Amen.

BROCKVILLE.—On my return from a ten days' rest, I was handed a notice from the chairman of the town council, to the effect that the council wanted the room occupied by us as a barracks, for other purposes, and they therefore wanted me to vacate the premises at the end of a month. We began to look around for another building, and I was successful in securing the building recently occupied by the "Recorder" newspaper as a printing office. The building had been standing vacant for some time, and was in very badly dilapidated condition. But we went at it like men of war, and after six days' hard, persistent labor, we had completed the work to the satisfaction of knowing that we had got into the best barracks the Salvation Army had ever occupied in this town, and best of all, at the opening service on Thursday, Aug. 20th, enough money had been raised to pay all the bills, and have funds in our open-air meetings keeps up well. We occasionally get someone converted, which makes our hearts rejoice. I believe we have lost three of our best men soldiers of late by removal, yet the Lord is still with us, and we are determined to conquer.—Capt. J. C. LODGATE.

BRAMPTON.—"There will be a genuine 'Sharp' (man) at the S. A. on Saturday night and Sunday." Such was the sounding the welcome meetings of Staff Capt. Sharp and Ensign Moore, held here on the 20th and 21st inst. Saturday was a day of blessing from 7 a. m. when a few of us met to get our armor brightened and our swords sharpened for the day's conflict, (and truly such it proved), until 10 p. m. God spoke very forcibly through the Staff and Ensign at night, and as they laid down the truth to the people, many trembled on account of sin. But the 'not-to-night devil' kept them from obeying their guilty. On Thursday night God's Kingdom may come in the hearts of the Brampton people, is our prayer.

"We've been out to-day, oh, yes!
We'll not give in, oh, no!"

is our determination this morning.—Lieut. MATTIE WARE.

DUNDAS.—We are rejoicing in the God of our Salvation. This last week He has given us the victory. Glory be to Jesus. Saturday and Sunday we had Capt. Rock, the saved Frenchman, with us, and of course we had a good time. One sinner came and laid her all on Jesus; "soldiers" and good were forsaken. God bless her. The people loved to hear Capt. R. cit give his life experience. We all say "God bless him."—HARRY and BEANT.

STRATFORD.—Arrived safe; found things in good shape to lay hold for God; everything comfortable, many thanks to our people concerned. I had two of some real Salvation work, a good loyal corps, and good signs of victory. On Sunday last one of our brother-in-law's, who has proved the reality of the work Jesus does in the heart. He has been out to all meetings, and means to be loyal to the end. We gain victory or death.—Capt. W. F. PEPPER.

OAKVILLE.—For some time now we have not told you how we are advancing at Oakville. As we look over the past we can say Jesus has been in our midst and giving us victory. We believe that God is helping us to establish a work for our locality. Our soldiers are becoming more spiritual. Bro. Bro. Northrop has taken the platform with us, and showed his love for those who love Jesus. We ourselves have been enjoying much of the presence of God. Yours in love with Jesus.—Capt. BELLA STUBBS.

STEREOSCOPIC VIEWS

—OF THE—

CENTRAL BATTALION MANŒUVRES.

Temple Squadron—Salutes the Cry.

We are weathering the storm, the tide is high, the waves dash fierce and fast, the bullets are flying, but we are fighting under the cross, we are safe. The enemy's ship is a bad one and is sinking fast. They have no life boat and must soon go down. We are endeavoring to capture the enemy, only to save them. A few of our old officers seemingly in despair, are now safe and rejoicing. Yours for victory—MAJOR WALL.

Capt. Tomlinson writes: "Victories and reports:—We are still living, though you have not heard much from us for a while. God has been helping us and giving us victory. We have made some captures and enrolled them as soldiers on a recent Wednesday night, on which occasion three sisters and a brother surrendered to our King for service.—Lieut. PARMOR.

Company VIII salutes, and reports a severe engagement and a defeat! But the defeat was on the enemy's side, Beelzebub lay low in his hollows. Everybody bawled "Pin glad!" and fire a volley.

Lippincott Lancers salute. Staff-Capts. Walton and Bolton did some heavy firing in the front ranks of our Sunday's engagement. They did not use blank cartridges, and the enemy we are sure suffered, though we heard no surrender. We look to hold the fort and conquer.—PATTERSON.

The XIVth, Toronto's "guard," salutes, and reports "all well." Move on is a familiar term in police circles, and has become so in S. A. circles as well. We turned out the enemy at the end of a month. We began to look around for another building, and I was successful in securing the building recently occupied by the "Recorder" newspaper as a printing office. The building had been standing vacant for some time, and was in very badly dilapidated condition. But we went at it like men of war, and after six days' hard, persistent labor, we had completed the work to the satisfaction of knowing that we had got into the best barracks the Salvation Army had ever occupied in this town, and best of all, at the opening service on Thursday, Aug. 20th, enough money had been raised to pay all the bills, and have funds in our open-air meetings keeps up well. We occasionally get someone converted, which makes our hearts rejoice. I believe we have lost three of our best men soldiers of late by removal, yet the Lord is still with us, and we are determined to conquer.—Capt. J. C. LODGATE.

BRAMPTON.—"There will be a genuine 'Sharp' (man) at the S. A. on Saturday night and Sunday." Such was the sounding the welcome meetings of Staff Capt. Sharp and Ensign Moore, held here on the 20th and 21st inst. Saturday was a day of blessing from 7 a. m. when a few of us met to get our armor brightened and our swords sharpened for the day's conflict, (and truly such it proved), until 10 p. m. God spoke very forcibly through the Staff and Ensign at night, and as they laid down the truth to the people, many trembled on account of sin. But the 'not-to-night devil' kept them from obeying their guilty. On Thursday night God's Kingdom may come in the hearts of the Brampton people, is our prayer.

"We've been out to-day, oh, yes!
We'll not give in, oh, no!"

is our determination this morning.—Lieut. MATTIE WARE.

DUNDAS.—We are rejoicing in the God of our Salvation. This last week He has given us the victory. Glory be to Jesus. Saturday and Sunday we had Capt. Rock, the saved Frenchman, with us, and of course we had a good time. One sinner came and laid her all on Jesus; "soldiers" and good were forsaken. God bless her. The people loved to hear Capt. R. cit give his life experience. We all say "God bless him."—HARRY and BEANT.

STRATFORD.—Arrived safe; found things in good shape to lay hold for God; everything comfortable, many thanks to our people concerned. I had two of some real Salvation work, a good loyal corps, and good signs of victory. On Sunday last one of our brother-in-law's, who has proved the reality of the work Jesus does in the heart. He has been out to all meetings, and means to be loyal to the end. We gain victory or death.—Capt. W. F. PEPPER.

OAKVILLE.—For some time now we have not told you how we are advancing at Oakville. As we look over the past we can say Jesus has been in our midst and giving us victory. We believe that God is helping us to establish a work for our locality. Our soldiers are becoming more spiritual. Bro. Bro. Northrop has taken the platform with us, and showed his love for those who love Jesus. We ourselves have been enjoying much of the presence of God. Yours in love with Jesus.—Capt. BELLA STUBBS.

GONE HOME.

Capt. Mary Hunter Among the Redeemed Before the Throne.

A devoted life, the salvation of many souls, a brief illness, and a triumphant entry into glory, may be a fair summary of our sister's career. It doesn't sound very much in mere words, but in the sight of Him who sees the hearts of men and weighs up their purposes, there is much recorded that man and earth would pass unheeded. Eternity unshrouds, will make it and disclose many things we shall then learn, if never before, how wondrous have been our opportunities to bless the world in life and word and deed. We shall discover, too, that platform-work has not been the only, or even may be the most blessed instrument put into our hands by the God who holds the threads of life, or who will weave them into a perfect pattern if we are but passive in His hands.

Capt. Hunter, after knowing

THE SORROWS OF A BACKSLIDER'S EXPERIENCE,

though it only dated over the space of one year, came to Toronto and entered into the service of the Kingdom. In 1884 she became an officer, and has since fought bravely for our cause, and, as I hear, in the first rank, the great commander has let take the palm of victory in the Glory land.

It is a wonderful thing that a home once broken is stronger than another never injured, and it seems that in the case of Mary Hunter this was spiritually verified. Having once allowed Satan to undermine the foundation of her companionship, she was ever more strong on this point to resist temptation. One of her friends, only a few weeks, but could not find any rest, he had to come to the barracks, and saved before he went away, as he said, "I was ready to go this afternoon, but I was afraid to go away unsaved." So the father, son and daughter had a hallelujah time together, and the devil got left again in our dear brother, as he up his pipe. Another young man, who was at this place in a relation, came to the barracks on Sunday night and God's spirit strove with him while there, but he refused, so he left the barracks unsaved, but on our way to our quarters we met him and he said he wanted to be saved, so we got him to a quarters, and it was there he found pardon for the past. He was one of the Austin Street "onward go." Glory! Glory!! Glory!!!

A BOMB SHELL FROM GRAND BANK, N.F.—The devil is mad, and we are glad. Wonder. He is losing some of his fellows rapidly. Since coming here we have seen six precious souls tumble into the fountain that cleanses from sin. Jesus the saviour was a brother who selfishness went to a place of worship, but at last he began to realize that the Old Clan was defunding him, and that if he did not hasten better life he would claim him altogether. He began to come along to the meetings, not only that, but he confessed to the Friend. After he got saved he gave God all the glory. Not only did he tell the people in the barracks, but he prayed God all the way home, shouting, and telling the people that he had found a peace and joy he never had before. He exceeded Hallelujah! We are labouring for still greater victories.—Capt. B. CARTER. (Send us some more like this Captain). ED.

GLORIOUS TIMES AT TRURO, N. S.—THE DEVIL'S HARD LUCK.

We can't shout out of the top of our lungs in the victory of the blessings wherewith He has blessed us. Our hearts have been made to rejoice over the salvation of five souls since our last report. Our testimony the other night Mother T—said she thought God that He had not only saved her, but had saved her two sons, one of whom she had whom were on the platform, and her prayer was that He would save her daughter, and we rejoiced to see her God breathe over your head heart even while you read!

Memorial services were held at Uxbridge by Brigadier Margetts on Sunday, Aug. 23rd, when Capt. Hunter's last work were put forth as an example for others to follow.

One a most help being struck with the spirit of consecration in which she must have filled her duties, and the fervor with fire applying for the work. To the question, "Are you willing to go abroad?" she answered, "I think the Saviour is a field of God who trusts her Father to order her steps aright, "I will go any place for God, if it leads me to jail!"

We mourn not, but rather rejoice that having finished her course with gladness, our sister has gone to her reward.

B. B. COX.

The Memorial Meeting of Capt. Hunter.

On Saturday, the 22nd August, Mrs. Margetts and I after a severe scramble to catch the train at the Union Depot, and a pleasant little journey in company with B. O. Sharp, Adjt. and Mrs. Howell, and Capt. Hunter, we arrived at Uxbridge. Capt. Barker and Lieut. Parsons were at the station with to receive us.

WELCOMES AND CHARIOTS

We had all agreed to pray for God to make this last tribute to our departed comrade the means of blessing to some our own souls, as also a time of Salvation to some sinner, and it was with us, therefore, from start to finish.

We had a fair time on Saturday night, but could not do much definite work, on account of the congregation being in a hurry to leave the building.

It rained fast most of the time on Sunday, which had the effect of keeping many of the country people from coming in, and many of the town people from coming out. The morning, however, were and God put His seal upon them and gave us eight souls during the day for Salvation and purity.

GOOD AND DEFINITE,

The officers, Mrs. M. and I, in response to their kind invitation, went out to take a cup of tea and burst a little comforting talk with the bereaved friends of our departed sister, and many were the references made to her patience in suffering, her triumphant faith in affliction and temptation; her ever calm and blessedly confident assurance of God's saving, enlightening, and keeping power; and no matter how desperately her frame was racked with pain, or her soul tossed by her spiritual foe, she was always ready to give her testimony to His all-sufficient grace. And confidently assure us it would soon be all over.

How could the devil get over a testimony of this kind? "Seven years ago, (quoting the date) in my life's book. It was then made oh, so clean by the Blood—and Jesus. You know that I have not done anything that would cost a stain upon this clean leaf."

THEREAD OVER A NEW LEAF

We commenced the Memorial meeting with, "There is a better world they say, oh, so bright," which was followed by "We've a story to tell to the nations," and faith for the comrades, (all with white hands round their left arms) believing in the truth of their grand old song, "We will go to the life, and living testimonies of our comrade just took hold of it saddly, and tears came to more than one eye before we got through.

God came near. A couple of the brethren in the corps who knew her best,

Like hers in death, never spoke, a report in the CRY from corps.

* * *

Specimens.

The Lieut. who stuck the CRY contents bill always on the quarters and barracks' doors as conspicuous as real estate signs.

A soldier who spoke of his Saviour as a "sight" and "bright" and "shine" and "glory" and "sweet" and "precious" and "glorious" and "wonderful" and "blessed" and "Jesus" and "Glory—Quick Book-sliders are wishing they were home once more," and sinners are thinking earnestly about salvation. This is a sample of churches, but there are quite a number of young men and women who attend the Army very regularly whom we are labouring to secure for God and for long. Yours and God's.—ARTHUR MARTIN.

WELCOME FROM WESTERN WORDS OF WARRIORS.

New Westminster, B. C. Major Capt. Morris visited us on the 20th ult., and Staff-Capt. Simco. Capt. Frith, Lieuts. Westcott and Comstock on the 24th. The hall was crowded. The "Mount-ain Bird" sang and accompanied himself on the guitar and Capt. Harry on the banjo. The Major was just as lively as ever, and everybody went in to glorify God and rectify the devil. "The Vennie Wren" of Vancouver says: "We're bound to win," and everything went off with a swing. We hope to report results soon.

God is fast preparing the people of Neepawa to prepare for the great Judgment Day. During the past week souls have numbered have sought every suddenly. One young man was in our meeting on Monday night unsaved, and before the meeting was over he was in security. What a warning to the unsaved! Praise God that some have taken it as a warning; and some have turned to God on Tuesday night, and another young woman came to the Mercy Seat on Wednesday night, and knelt down and prayed for Jesus. Praise God! We are believing for more soon. "Be ye also ready, for in such an hour that ye think not the Son of Man will come." Capt. LIZZIE ISAACSON.

Emerson, Man.—Here we are at last. Since our last report God has been with us. Souls are being won for war. We are living beneath the Blood and claiming victory. The work is rolling along, and we look for more. We thank God for our Lord for ever! Thus hoping to have all the glory, we remain, Yours in the Blood.—Capt. BIRD.

Carlisle.—Here we are at Carlisle, one of our outposts, God has helped us there in a wonderful way. The place was formerly The Mountain, and we met with great opposition, but the arm of the Lord has been made bare and souls are being saved from their old sinful state; homes have been made happy; fathers and mothers converted, and children are converted, they say. "Thank God things have changed right about since you comrades have come here, to help us!"

HAVE FAMILY PRAYER

now night and morning, and God does help us to live good." "Bless Him for ever!" We have two outposts about eighteen miles from Emerson in the Manitoba District. The work is booming there also, and attempt God is giving us the desires of our hearts. Hallelujah! Yours for Him in the war. Cadet G. G. MCNUTT.

Rapid City.—Dear Brigadier: We probably a word about the running of our corps would not come amiss to some of our readers, so we will give you a few lines yet, nor has the heavy frost which recently swept the country in the least degree caused our ardor to cool in the matter of souls. We have no regular officers here, but the corps was never in better condition. We get all the support we need from our friends and are raising "War Cry" order to supply the number of people who have got so interested in the work. (Glorious!) Book-sliders are wishing they were home once more," and sinners are thinking earnestly about salvation. This is a sample of churches, but there are quite a number of young men and women who attend the Army very regularly whom we are labouring to secure for God and for long. Yours and God's.—ARTHUR MARTIN.

SOME SPICED MIXTURE.

Very Seldom Seen.

A "WAR CRY Contents bill" stuck up on a board fence, or outside a barracks' door.

Soldiers with any uniform on during the day, even a scrap of S. A. ribbon or a badge.

Lassies with "Salvation Army" across the front of their jackets.

Sinners who speak, never, a report in the CRY from corps.

* * *

Specimens.

The Lieut. who stuck the CRY contents bill always on the quarters and barracks' doors as conspicuous as real estate signs.

A soldier who took over shiny CRYS to Oporto and sold them to the Portuguese, brought the money back, and took some more on another trip.

* * *

Is there anything in the Bible about getting up the War Cry? Yes, in that you can find anything in the Bible you search for. Fish it out quick, if there is.

Is Isaiah 8th chapter and 1st verse, a command to write to the War Cry?

Won't the War Cry sellers have to have a special reveal's dream comes true—a daily WAR CRY!

CAPTAIN MARY HUNTER.

SAFE WITH JESUS.

BY THE HALLELUJAH TRAMP.

TUNE—"Tis true Jesus died.

When down in the valley with Jesus I go,
Or up on the mountain so high,
'Tis still with assurance and peace in my soul,
That Jesus is always near by.
Then with wonder and gladness I cry with my soul,
Praise and faith for the comrades, (all with white hands round their left arms) believing in the truth of their grand old song, "We will go to the life, and living testimonies of our comrade just took hold of it saddly, and tears came to more than one eye before we got through.

God came near. A couple of the brethren in the corps who knew her best,

Like hers in death, never spoke, a report in the CRY from corps.

* * *

Specimens.

The Lieut. who stuck the CRY contents bill always on the quarters and barracks' doors as conspicuous as real estate signs.

A soldier who took over shiny CRYS to Oporto and sold them to the Portuguese, brought the money back, and took some more on another trip.

* * *

Is there anything in the Bible about getting up the War Cry? Yes, in that you can find anything in the Bible you search for. Fish it out quick, if there is.

Is Isaiah 8th chapter and 1st verse, a command to write to the War Cry?

Won't the War Cry sellers have to have a special reveal's dream comes true—a daily WAR CRY!

SAFE WITH JESUS.

BY THE HALLELUJAH TRAMP.

TUNE—"Tis true Jesus died.

When down in the valley with Jesus I go,
Or up on the mountain so high,
'Tis still with assurance and peace in my soul,
That Jesus is always near by.
Then with wonder and gladness I cry with my soul,
And I know Thou hast made me thine own.

CHORUS.

Oh! 'tis true Jesus died.

When tempted and tried by the world and its care,
He gives me sweet peace in my soul.
It is then that I prove He my burdens doth bear.
And His power like a wave doth o'er me roll.
It is then I can feel He is mine more and more,
And by faith I can see Him again.
On the Cross where He died thus my soul doth rejoice,
Now I stand on the rock that is solid and true.
I learn
To press on when the foe would assail me,
And I know know for sure that He'll carry me through.
For I know in His word He has said,
That His grace will suffice for my needs over day.
And from Him I receive the living bread,

TO INTENDING CANDIDATES.

Kindly order blank all Applications for the Rank should be addressed to Colonel Cox, 20 Sackville St., Toronto, Ont., and should be accompanied by Fee to defray cost of printing, postage, etc.

TRADE DEPARTMENT.

"General Booth and His Critics,"

Being an analysis of the Scheme, and an enquiry into the value of the Criticisms of Professor Huxley, C. S. Loch, the "Times" newspaper, and others; together with an outline of the New Trust Deed, in connection with the "Darkest England" Scheme,

BY H. GREENWOOD, M.A., LL.D.

35 CENTS.

Did you ever read

"BILLY BRAY?"

If not, you had better send at once 40 cts., and secure a nice Cloth-Bound copy of this Most Interesting Work. His conversion, and many anecdotes of his original way of preaching have been told, which are encounted in this book.

"SALVATION SOLDIERY,"

BY THE GENERAL.

A series of Addresses on the requirements of Jesus Christ's service.

CONTENTS:

"To the Rescue."
"David: A True Type and Forerunner of a Salvation Army Cadet."
"Our New Name, 'The Salvationist.'"
"Nathan: or Straight Truth."
"The Salvation Army."
"Getting Rid of the Filth."
"Jeremiah: or Putting Down the Salvationists."
"A Good Soldier of Jesus Christ."
"Miriam: A Forerunner of the Prophetesses of the Salvation Army."
"How to Command a Corps of the Salvation Army."
"Isaiah: or the Unsealing of the Lips."
"The Child Jesus."
"Holiness."
"The Trial and Triumph of Abraham."
"A Merry Christmas."
"The Conqueror."
"Moses: An Old Salvationist Viewing the Land."
"The Baptism of Fire."
"Die at Your Post."

8 ILLUSTRATIONS.

Bound in Cloth 50c, Paper 35c.

A Splendid Offer.

READ AND LEARN.

Finney's Skeletons of Theological Lectures (287 pages).
Finney's Lectures on Revivals of Religion (326 pages).
Finney's Lectures to Professing Christians (310 pages).

These Three Splendid Volumes, nicely Bound in Cloth Covers, should be in the library of every lover of Aggressive Christianity. We are selling this collection at $1.40 ONLY.

Price of a Single Volume, 55 Cents.

FOR OUR HOMES.

Pictures of Prominent Salvation Warriors.

	Quality I.	Quality II.
Litho of the General		25c
" " Major Musa Bhai (colored)	35c
Litho of Commander Ballington Booth	35c	25c
Litho of Mrs. Ballington Booth ..	35c	25c
" " " Branwell " ..	35c	25c
" " Com'r Booth-Tucker ...	35c	25c
" " Mrs. " ...	35c	25c
Cromo of the late Mrs. Booth only	50c
Memorial Cards of Mrs. Booth each	3c
Photo of the Temple (11 x 14)	25c
" " the late D.O. Madden ..	10c

Every Salvationist Home should have some of these Pictures.

"HOUSE-TOP SAINTS."

A Charming Collection of Salvation Facts.

CLOTH BOUND, - 35 Cents
PAPER COVER, - 25 "

Send for One Right Away.

Ho! for the Wedding

As it hath been decided that ENSIGN GEORGE WOOD and CAPTAIN ANNIE ANDREWS shall be lawfully

MARRIED 'NEATH THE ARMY COLORS

This Ceremony will take place at Lippincott Barracks,

—ON—

Thursday, Sept. 24th,

AT 8 P.M.

The COMMISSIONER will be in Command,

Assisted by Brigadiers Holland, Margetts and the Headquarters Staff.

SECURE YOUR SEAT IN GOOD TIME.

A GREAT

Social Reform Meeting

WILL BE HELD IN

The Knox Church, James St., Hamilton

Tuesday, September 29th, 1891,

AT 7 P.M.

MAYOR McLELLAN in the Chair.

The HON. R. MORETON, DR. FRAZER, B.A., Pastor of Knox Church; ADAM BROWN, ESQ., Postmaster, and a number of Clergymen and Prominent Citizens will be present.

Staff-Captain Bolton, Social Wing Secretary; Mrs. Bolton; Staff-Captain S. H. Cox, Pioneer of the English Slum Work; Ensign W. Archibald, S.R.B. will also take part.

TORONTO DIVISION.

BRIGADIER AND MRS. MARGETTS

WILL VISIT

PARKDALE - - - Sept. 26, 27

BRIG. MARGETTS & STAFF-CAPT. SHARP

WILL VISIT

UXBRIDGE - - -	Sept.	28
MIDLAND - - - -	"	29
COBOCONCK - - - -	"	30
KINMOUNT - - - -	Oct.	1
PENELON FALLS - - -	"	2
LINDSAY - - - -	"	3, 4, 5
RIVERSIDE - - - -	"	12

MRS. BRIGADIER MARGETTS

Will hold special Women's Demonstrations at

LISGAR STREET - - -	Sept.	30
YORKVILLE - - - -	Oct.	1

AND WILL VISIT

MARKHAM - - - -	Oct.	3, 4
STOUFFVILLE - - - -	"	5

Everybody Pray, Believe, and Fight for the Salvation of Souls.

We have a new stock of

J. S. Sergeants' Badges

worked in Yellow Silk on Blue Cloth,

AT 20 CENTS.

J. S. Sergeants' Badges

(Red Silk),

AT 20 CENTS.

OUR $19.00 IRISH SERGE SUIT

Cannot be Beaten.

It stands the wear, and is never known to fade or get "slopy."

It Wears better than any other Goods you can get for our purposes.

It gives satisfaction to everybody.

Everyone who tries it comes again.

WE GUARANTEE A GOOD FIT.

Pants Only extra.

All communications for insertion in the War Cry or "Young Soldier" must be written on one side of the paper only, plainly, to ink, and be accompanied by the name and address of the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as evidence of good faith.

We cannot undertake to return any communications rejected communications.

SONGS AND POEMS MUST BE ORIGINAL, that is to say, they must be composed expressly for the sender; and if they have previously appeared in print it must be so stated.

BRIGADE, DIVISIONAL AND OTHER OFFICERS for insertion in the next week's War Cry should reach the Editor's hands by WEDNESDAY morning at LATEST. Preference will, however, be given to reports which, arrive early in the week. Reports of SPECIAL INTEREST, such as "Special Meetings" Sieges, etc., should be reported to the Editor immediately they occur.

COPIES OF LOCAL NEWSPAPERS IN WHICH ANYTHING OF ARMY WORK APPEARS SHOULD ALWAYS BE SENT TO THE EDITOR.

"Press matter" for publication, if marked in the margin, and left open at the ends, goes through the post at the book rate of postage, which is a cent for four ounces. All communications to be addressed to the Editor "War Cry," Salvation Temple, Toronto, Ont.

PRESS TELEGRAMS should reach the Editor by TUESDAY SOON AT LATEST for insertion in the current "War Cry" or "Young Soldier," and should only be used for intelligence of an important character, and must be addressed, "War Cry," or "Young Soldier," Toronto.

TO SUBSCRIBERS.

All Subscriptions, Money Orders, Changes of Address, etc., are to be addressed, and Money Orders made payable to D. M. REES, Salvation Temple, Albert Street, Toronto.

HELLO, BROTHER!

You want

A GUERNSEY?

Take your choice below and send your order to the Trade Secretary:—

Worsted Guernsey, with "Salvation Army" worked across the chest,	$1 75
Red Guernsey with Crest, finer qual.
fly	2 00
Red Guernsey with Crest, extra qual.
fly	2 10
Red Guernsey with Crest, Cashmere	2 25

[Norte.—P.O.O. to be made payable to D. M. Rees.]

Now is Your Time to get a real good Portrait of our Leaders for your home. Just read this:—

The General's Litho	25c
Splendid Chromo of the late Mrs. Booth	25c
Major Musa Bhai, Colored Litho	25c
Commander Ballington Booth, quality I	25c
" " " " " II	25c
Mrs. " " " " I	25c
" " " " " II	25c
Mrs. Branwell Booth, quality I	25c
" " " " " II	25c
Commissioner Booth-Tucker, quality I	25c
" " " " " II	25c
Mrs. " " " " I	25c
" " " " " II	25c

We have a few Junior Soldiers' left, which we Sell at $1.25.

GUERNSEYS

Send your Orders in right away.

FOR LASSIES.

We are in a position now to supply to our Junior Lassies

TRIMMED BONNETS

AT $1.50.

This is the Cheapest Yet.

THE YOUNG SOLDIER. ONE CENT PER COPY, 50 cents per annum. Printed and issued by the Publisher at the S.A. Printing House, 12 Albert St., Toronto.

THE WAR CRY CONTAINS ALL THE LATEST news of the W. Wn. expressly for the General and Officers and Soldiers. There is no more effective way to spread Salvation term by increasing the circulation of THE WAR CRY, which is circulated not merely to sustain and intensify the devotion of The Army, but to circulate all who read it to a more aggressive and energetic attack upon the kingdom of the World, thus, also, the more combined efforts to extend the kingdom of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. Published weekly, at the S.A. Printing House, 12 Albert Street, Toronto.